SENATORS SEE UPTREND IN LIVING COSTS

WORK GETS PRAISE

Sen. Thomas Says Commodity Prices Now at 100.5 Level, Adds 'Wheat's Too Low.'

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Senatorial predictions of an upward trend in prices and a consequent increase in the cost of living came today on heels of the announced retirement of Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

The predictions were accompanied by drastic changes in price and rationing policies in an effort to quell widespread criticism throughout the country. Congressional intimates of Sen. Prentiss M. Brown (D) Mich., Henderson's probable successor, expect him to avoid "crack down" methods and to assuage discontent in congress over the OPA.

"The government has to have production, and in order to get production some prices will have to go up," said Sen. Elmer Thomas (D) Okla. "This does not mean inflation.

"The general price level of 900 commodities is 100.5. It was 98.7 when Henderson set up his organization to maintain an even price level, and this shows that he did a good job.

"I, for one, would be satisfied to keep the price level at 100. But some commodities are too low, wheat and cotton, for example. Some prices ought to be reduced and some ought to go up."

Thomas said he had been advised that the National Grange, American Farm Bureau Federation, National Farmers' Union and "all the other farm organizations" will confer in Washington on a program for submission to the new congress. One of the propositions to be considered, he said, is a whole new farm parity price formula.

"The existing formula needs revision to cover the whole farm picture, including a definite mandate to the administration to include the farmers' labor cost in fixing parity price ceilings," Thomas declared.

Sen. Lucas (D) Ill., said that

Crisis Looms In Eastern Transportation System as OPA Seeks to Ease Gasoline Moratorium By Next Week

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Passenger car traffic shrank throughout the East today as 7,200,000 motorists entered the second day of a gasoline moratorium with hope of some measure of relief by Monday.

There were indications, however, that the normal rationing program might not re-appear for at least six weeks.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced that OPA may be able to ease the temporary cancellation of A, B, and C ration books in the 17 Atlantic states and the District of Columbia within the next 48 hours.

"A thoroughly integrated plan is being worked out to take the place of the suspension order and we hope to be able to announce it by Sunday and put it into effect Monday morning," Henderson said.

As gasoline tanks dried up, however, car owners crowded into already overburdened busses, street cars and taxis, spreading alarm in many cities that public transportation facilities would not be able to carry the load.

In the nation's capital, a breakdown was feared and suggestions were made that the schools be closed and the hours of work of government agencies be staggered to lighten the rush hour loads.

There was no official indication as to what provision the new OPA plan would contain to deal with the "military emergency" described thus because of the diversion of east coast petroleum supplies to the military forces in North Africa.

Several possible solutions were reported, namely:

British Launch Offensive to Retake Burma

Japs Retreat When Empire Forces Advance Along Bengal Bay.

(By United Press)

NEW DELHI — Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell's British Imperial army was on the offensive along the roads and rivers of Burma today one year and four days after the Japanese invasion that resulted in a complete British retirement into India.

In the first phase of the offensive, a communique of the Indian command announced, the British forces struck 30 miles into Burma along the Bay of Bengal advancing on a 20-mile front between the bay and the Mayu river.

Japanese forces, which had been fortifying the area, withdrew without offering a fight.

It was not immediately apparent whether the advance was the first move in a big scale offensive all along the Burmese border or one of limited scope designed to test the thickness of the Japanese defense belt.

But it was the first step toward the fulfillment of Wavell's promise to drive the Japanese from Burma and open the Burma road for the supplies which China needs urgently to drive to the China sea coast and establish air bases from which land based planes can bomb Japan.

Wavell's communique revealed that the British forces had opened their attack several days ago.

Striking suddenly from the Chittagong hill region, the powerful British and Indian forces moved southward along the Bay of Bengal, and occupied Baungdaw and Buthidaung, 30 miles inside Burma and 60 miles above Akyab.

"The enemy, who had been in occupation of this area since our withdrawal from Burma, and who had prepared defenses, withdrew without offering resistance," the communique said.

Eighth Army Drives 135 Miles West Of El Agheila Chasing Foe.

BULLETIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA —(U.P.)— The British fleet now is able to move freely in both ends of the Mediterranean and to supply the advancing Eighth army from the sea, Admiral Sir Andrew B. Cunningham, naval commander in North Africa, said today.

(By United Press)

LONDON—The British Eighth army pushed 135 miles west of El Agheila today, and radio Morocco broadcast a report that advanced units of Marshal Erwin Rommel's retreating Afrika Korps already had begun to straggle into the big Axis base at Tripoli.

Reports from Middle Eastern command headquarters said Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's army had reached Sultan, 135 miles from the break-through point at El Agheila. There was a flurry of resistance by German-Italian forces at Nofilia, 90 miles from El Agheila, but the Axis troops were pushed out quickly and the British seized the air base there.

Allied planes raced miles ahead of the advancing Eighth army and gave the weary, retreating Axis forces no rest.

It seemed increasingly likely that Rommel was trying to get what is left of his army into Tunisia where another Axis force under Co.-Gen. Walther Nehring is defending Tunis and Bizerte. Indicative of that, an Italian commentator, broadcasting from Rome, said: "The North African front is assuming more and more the character of a single front."

Radio Morocco reported that the most advanced flying columns of Montgomery's army were within 20 miles of Sirte, 180 miles

CHRISTMAS MAIL RUSH HEADS FOR RECORD IN CITY

101,900 Cancellations For One Day Reported With Peak Still to Come.

Mansfield postoffice was well on its way today toward shattering all holiday mailing records as first class cancellations continued to top 1941 records and the peak is not expected to be reached before Monday or Tuesday.

All postal windows will remain open today until 7 p. m. to accommodate the public and postoffice hours will also be extended to 7 p. m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, next week. Postal windows ordinarily close at 12 noon, Saturdays.

Yesterday's first class mail cancellations topped by almost 40,000 the cancellations for the corresponding day one year ago. Letters and greeting cards run through the cancelling machine yesterday totalled 101,900 against 62,000 in 1941.

Predicting that the out-going mail will be exceptionally heavy Monday because of the opportunity afforded by the week-end for addressing purposes, Postmaster Herman E. Homberger said that for a second time this season the postoffice had issued 70,000 one and a-half cent stamps yesterday.

Mail will be dispatched as usual Sunday but no window service will be available. The parcel post mail, both incoming and out-going is slowly diminishing, the postoffice said, indicating that next week the bulk of the Christmas mail would likely be confined to cards and letters.

REFUSES TO ACT

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Postmaster Michael F. O'Donnell today refused to seek disciplinary action against 30 postoffice clerks who left their jobs two hours early after working 10 hours of a 12-hour day.

O'Donnell said his investigation had disclosed that seven of the men were visibly ill and the others presented reasonable excuses.

New Air Gun Fires 12,000 Shots a Minute

W. B. Hale, Los Angeles inventor, is pictured here demonstrating his new pneumatic gun which he claims fires 12,000 rounds per minute. That's 200 bullets a second! The gun fires a missile the equivalent of a .50-caliber bullet, operating from a compressed air cylinder. There is no explosion or flash — a sniper's dream. No shell casings or powder are needed, only the pellets themselves are fed into the tripod-mounted gun. There is no recoil. Hale has demonstrated the gun before Army, Navy and Marine Corps officers.

RICKENBACKER IN WASHINGTON TO GIVE REPORT

Greeted at Airport by Arnold, Head of Army Air Force, And Own Family.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker arrived at Bolling Field from the west coast in a converted Consolidated B-24 bomber at 9:20 a. m. EWT., today.

He was accompanied by Col. Hans Adamson who was lost with him in the Pacific.

The party was greeted by Assistant Secretary of War Robert A. Lovett, Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold commander of the army air forces, and Mrs. Rickenbacker and her two sons, Bill and David.

As Rickenbacker stepped out of the plane, Arnold greeted him with "I'm damned glad to see you."

Rickenbacker will give Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson a first-hand account of his rescue after three weeks adrift on a rubber boat in the Pacific. He was rushed from Bolling Field to the Pentagon building to report to Stimson.

Adamson, seriously ill from his ordeal, was removed from the plane on a stretcher and taken to Walter Reed hospital. His wife was at the field to meet him.

It was almost two months ago that Rickenbacker left Washington, as confidential advisor on aviation to Stimson, for a secret mission in the Pacific. Eight days later, on Oct. 23, the war department announced that Rickenbacker and the seven men with him were overdue on a flight between Oahu, Hawaii, and another Pacific Island.

But Stimson, like Rickenbacker's wife was not ready to give the flier up for lost.

"I can't help clinging to the hope that he will still turn up," Stimson said.

CHARGES PILE UP AGAINST PAIR

FBI, Richland, Huron Sheriffs And Reformatory After 2 Fugitives.

Two inmates who escaped Nov. 22 from the Ohio State Reformatory and have run afoul of the law so many times since that date that they are now wanted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Huron and Richland county officers as well as the reformatory, are in custody in Omaha, Neb., Sheriff Frank Robinson has been informed.

Besides that, one of the men, Gilbert Mattison, is already serving a sentence in the Nebraska capital as a result of his escapades in that city. The other, Melvin Schutte, probably will be turned over first to the FBI which has the most serious charge pending, with Mattison to face such a count later.

Troubles of the two men began, when soon after their escape, they are believed to have stolen clothing and a watch from the John Theodore home on Bowman road and a pistol and more clothing at the Carl Beer home on Amoy road. For these offenses, a charge of breaking and entering might be booked by the Richland county officers.

Still more serious is the charge

FAVOR OPENING ON SATURDAY

Retail Merchants Recommend Store Operations Saturday After Christmas.

The board of trustees of the Retail Merchants association has recommended to its membership that Mansfield retail stores remain open until 6 p. m. on the Saturday after Christmas, in a bulletin on the question.

The bulletin announced that the decision of the board, which was unanimous, had been taken after obtaining information from the state council of retail merchants and from other cities where the question was under discussion.

Two Mansfield department stores, the R. B. Maxwell company and the H. L. Reed company, have announced they will be closed from Christmas eve until the following Monday morning, giving employes a three-day holiday.

The trustees of the association said that their action was influenced by the belief that it would be a service to the public to remain open and that such action would give families of service men home of furlough to make purchases or exchange gifts. Some stores, it was explained, felt that closing for the day would be inconvenient due to their types of business.

C. F. Routzahn president of the Maxwell company, said his firm decided several months ago to close on Dec. 26, in line with a recommendation of the retail advisory board of the OPA to conserve power and fuel. The closing, he said, would also give the store sales staff "a well-earned rest after the holiday buying season."

NAMED BY U. S.

Mansfielder Indicted by Jury On 'Numbers Writing' Count.

Peter R. Friend, 626 Grant street, listed in the city directory as a shipper for the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, is one of 20 Ohioans in a group of 88 persons under indictment today by a federal grand jury in Chicago, charged with conspiracy to violate federal lottery laws, an Associated Press dispatch said today.

According to Mansfield police Friend had been identified with the treasury balance pool ticket sales, more commonly known as "numbers writing" but the authorities could not say whether or not he is active at this time.

District Attorney J. Albert Woll said the widespread lottery system, "based on baseball games, treasury balances and race track mutuel numbers grossed more than $1,000,000 a year. The principal defendants are Chicagoans. Maximum penalties upon conviction are two years in prison and fines up to $10,000.

FALLS ON ICE, DIES

COLUMBUS — (INS) — James Hart, 58, of near Grove City, was injured fatally when he slipped and fell on an icy path at the Crown Building Material Co. A jagged piece of sheet metal pierced his lung.

QUESTION TRIO

Police Quiz 3 Japanese Found Studying Map In Auto.

Three American-born Japanese had three hours of explaining to do last night due to the vigilance of Patrolmen John Gilbert and John Steel.

About 10 p. m. the cruising patrolmen noticed a car bearing New York license plates parked on North Walnut street, its three occupants studying a map. Further investigation revealed their distinctive Japanese features and the patrolmen escorted them to police headquarters.

Under a grilling lasting more than two hours they were released on instructions of the Cleveland office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. All established, so far as investigators here could learn, their allegiances to the United States and all are eager to join the armed forces to fight the land of their fathers.

One of the trio is a horticulturist, his companions being chicken specialists. They are en route to jobs near Philadelphia.

DIES IN FIRE

Woman Killed, Man Burned In Apartment Blaze.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Identification of a woman's body still was incomplete today and Clarence Cooper, 37, was in serious condition at Mount Sinai hospital as a result of a fire which swept the suite they were in.

A first floor tenant, Mrs. Elizabeth Yoder, had heard moans in the room above, but did not investigate until later, when she and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Adele Yoder, went upstairs and discovered the smoke.

SELL PAPERS FOR CHARITY

COLUMBUS — (INS) — One hundred twenty business and professional men will stand on Columbus street corners today to sell newspapers as the Charity newsies, volunteer carrier organization, conducts its annual paper sale.

Canton Without Newspaper as WLB Refuses to Act

CANTON —(INS)— Informed by the WLB that it would not enter the controversy while workers were on strike, the Canton Repository will not go to press again today for the second day as a result of the strike of 73 compositors.

Assistance of the WLB was asked yesterday when the employes struck for an increase in wages. They are demanding approximately 11 cents on hour increase, or $1.30 for day work and $1.39 for night shift jobs.

The members of the Typographical union are basing their demands on increased cost of living since Jan. 1, 1941, and Thomas A. Holland, an International vice president of the union expressed a willingness to take the controversy "any place the law says we should go."

Roy D. Moore, general manager of the Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., of which the Repository is a member, rejected the demand for wage increases, retroactive to Sept. 30, when the old contract expired.

SEIZE GERMAN ARMS

CINCINNATI —(INS)— The FBI announced its largest seizure of contraband in the southern Ohio district when it raided a house where a German alien lived. Included were eight rifles, five pistols, three shotguns, 875 rounds of ammunition and a camera.

OBEYS ORDER

Montgomery Ward Signs Union Contract 'Under Duress.'

CHICAGO —(AP)— Montgomery Ward and company said last night that it had complied with President Roosevelt's second order that it accept a war labor board's ruling and sign a CIO union contract embodying the union security issue.

In a statement, the company said it "executed the document under duress and only because the president as commander in chief in time of war, expressly so ordered." The signed contract, however, did not contain a duress clause.

The mail order house twice had rejected WLB rulings and both times the dispute was referred for action to the president, who upheld the board's decision.

STOP BREWING

Four Columbus Breweries Are Closed by Strike.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Four breweries in Columbus suspended operations and delivery of beer today when members of the Brewer Workers union Local 47 (CIO) failed to report to their jobs.

The brewery workers, estimated at 300 by Charles Demmler, busines sagent, gathered at CIO headquarters in a "special meeting" to determine their next move in their demands for increased wages.

HALT WAR WORK

1200 Employes Strike at Plant Making Gas Masks.

DETROIT —(U.P.)— War production at the Eureka Vacuum Cleaner company plant was halted today when approximately 1,200 employes, most of them women, struck to force adjustment of alleged grievances and equalization of women's wages.

PATROL HUNTS MISSING MEN

Fear Foul Play After Millionaire Dancer Disappears.

MIAMI, Fla. — (UP) — Coast guard patrol planes and boats joined state police today in search through the Florida Keys for Benjamin J. Brinkman, Louisville, Ky., millionaire, and George Sedano, night club dancer, who have been missing for four days.

Brinkman and Sedano were last seen Tuesday aboard a cabin cruiser as they left a pier at the end of Card Sound bridge, about 40 miles south of here.

Fear of foul play in connection with the disappearance of the men was expressed by State Investigator I. R. Mills.

THRUST: M'Arthur Opens Stiff Attack on Foe at Buna Mission

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Army heavy bombers splattered Japan's base on Kiska island in the Aleutians with explosives on Dec. 17, the navy announced today, causing heavy explosions and starting fires.

(By United Press)

GEN. M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia — Gen. Douglas MacArthur's American troops opened a heavy new attack today on the rectangular Japanese beachhead at Buna mission on the north New Guinea coast.

Field guns and mortars opened a bombardment and while enemy guns replied the infantry advanced against the strong system of pillboxes and machine gun nests protecting the southeastern end of the Japanese positions.

In the attack area, the Japanese are now confined to an area about 1 2-3 miles long between the Buna mission and Cape Endaiadere and between 1½ and 1¾ miles deep. They have a strong defense line, planked by pillboxes, only a few score yards from the New American positions at the old airplane landing strip.

A mixed American-Australian force was still held up northwest of Buna, where they met fierce resistance by a strong force of Japanese whom they had pocketed.

Near Gona, up the coast, which the Australians had taken, Allied patrols were active around the mouth of the Amboga river, feeling the strength of an apparently strong enemy

PLANS: U. S. Getting Ready for Italy's Withdrawal From War

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Plans which envisage the possible elimination of Italy from the war next year today are being formulated by the state department.

The plans are intended to meet the situation which may confront the United Nations if Italy withdraws from the war either through its own efforts or with the help of an Allied invasion of that country.

Active consideration is being given to an occupational program for Italy as well as to the armistice terms that might be offered the Italian nation, especially if it should succeed in withdrawing from the war through its own efforts.

In view of the German hold on the country, little hope is held that Italy will be able to extricate itself from the war without the aid of Allied armies. However, there are growing indications that the Italian people are definitely fed up with the war and would welcome the opportunity to get out of it.

The possibility of serious internal repercussions in Italy is foreseen when Tunisia and Tripoli fall into Allied hands. With the fall of Tripoli, Italy will have lost all her colonial empire. With Tunisia in Allied hands, American and British air bases will be within 375 miles of Rome and within little more than 100 miles of Sardinia and Sicily.

It is considered not inconceivable that the Italian army and

The Youngsters Take a Bow

Because it's Christmas time the youngsters take a very special bow in the Sunday edition. Three layouts of pictures are devoted almost exclusively to their activities.

In one, the camera brings you pictures of youthful skaters in the midst of their fun on the ice at North Lake park.

The other two present two groups of lads—Cub Scouts and Y. M. C. A. woodshop workers—making gifts for Santa's pack. And with each group of pictures comes a story telling about the boys' activities.

But grown-ups come in for their share of notice, too.

You'll meet a woman who taught in Mansfield's public schools for more than 40 years and who now knits sweaters for service men who used to attend her classes.

You'll visit the Red Cross canteen unit as its members begin working out-of-doors to be prepared to serve food anywhere in time of emergency.

The Sunday edition also presents an intimate portrait of Admiral Halsey, in command of the U. S. naval forces in the South Pacific, and an illustrated feature on bombproof "fort" in Washington which houses the most precious of the national records.

IRREGULARITY BEFOGS STOCK MARKET TREND

November Retail Sales Over Nation Show Increase of 7 Per Cent Over 1941.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The price fog continued to envelop leading stocks in today's early market transactions.

Off fractions at a moderately active opening were U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Allied Chemical, U. S. Rubber and American Water Works. Small gains were posted for Anaconda and Chrysler.

Trend analysts noted the summary of the census bureau placing November sales of independent retailers at 7 per cent above the combparable period last year but 9 per cent under those of October.

Figures of the bureau of mines indicated daily average production of gasoline and allied products rose to 9,831,000 gallons during October compared with 9,797,000 in September.

force.

Allied planes continued to give strong support to the ground forces and Douglas A-20 attack bombers ranged all along the north coast. They machine gunned five barges at the mouth of the Kumusi river and dropped more than 100 fragmentation bombs on enemy troops at Kurenada village in this area.

Eleven enemy planes raided the Dodurda area, behind the Allied lines at Buna, without doing any damage and a single Japanese flying boat raided Port Moresby, the Allied base on the south New Guinia coast, without effect.

In the northwestern Australian zone, Allied medium bombers attacked Japanese installations at Maobisse and Mindelo in Netherlands-Portuguese Timor island.

Reports from the front said that American troops who on Thursday repulsed a Japanese counter-attack near Buna had counted the bodies of 37 Japanese dead among captured pillboxes and machine gun nests.

The reports also said that American army surgeans who examined the bodies of enemy dead found that some of them had been ill of scrub typhus, which is also called Tsutsumaguchi fever or Japanese river fever. The disease is transmitted by an insect which infests thick scrub and rank grass. It is prevalent in Korea, Formosa, Malaya, India and especially Japan where the death rate is sometimes as high as 60 per cent.

Yanks Sink 7 More Jap Supply Ships

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Continuing fierce attacks by planes, surface ships and subs, American forces today sought to disrupt seriously Japan's vital supply line to enemy bases in the Australian area and the southern Solomons.

Latest report on American submarines credited the U. S. undersea craft with sinking seven additional Japanese supply or auxiliary vessels, many of which are badly needed by the enemy in the south Pacific area.

Sunk were two tankers, three cargo ships, one transport and a trawler, which raised to 155 the number of Jap vessels sunk or damaged since the outbreak of war.

Although the navy failed to specify the scene of attacks, mention of action in the Pacific and far eastern waters left no doubt that the undersea boats are playing a vital role in the present battle for the Solomons.

CONFESSES HE SHOT HIS WIFE

Youngstown Man Declares Shooting Followed Argument.

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — William Howard McCutcheon, 26, confessed he shot his wife, Helen, 22, while she slept Friday night, Detectives Michael Flynn and John Albough said today.

While patrolmen made faces and wriggled their ears to distract attention of three of the McCutcheons' four small children, who were in an adjoining bedroom, McCutcheon sat calmly in the kitchen and told the detectives that he aimed a shotgun at his wife's head as she slept, then fired. He said today they had been arguing about her "going out with other men."

McCutcheon is being held on an open charge. Mrs. McCutcheon died instantly.

that could be filed by the Huron county authorities since the men are thought to have stolen the car used in their escape from Norwalk. The FBI charge could concern the transporting of the stolen car across the state line. Details of Mattison's Nebraska break with the law were not learned.

In the event none of these charges are booked, the men could be returned to the reformatory to serve the remainder of their terms plus extra time imposed as punishment for their escape.

Pending further consultation between officers of the various places, charges were being held in abeyance with the FBI count expected to take precedence since it is for the most serious offense. Other counts may be filed, in turn, which will assure the fugitives, upon their conviction, of a long time in one or another of the country's penal institutions.

FLEEING NAZIS ENTER TRIPOLI, MOROCCO SAYS

British Eighth Army Drives 135 Miles West of Agheila In Rommel Chase.

British armored columns shlashed mercilessly at the rear elements of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's fleeing army as it struggled westward, strung out all the way from the area west of Nofilia to the vicinity of Sirte, 75 miles to the west.

The flanking movement of the British flying columns, which had cut off the Axis force, appeared to have succeeded in turning an orderly retreat into a rout.

In Tunisia, improving weather brought a sudden intensification of patrol activity by both Allied and Axis forces to what radio Morocco called a vaster scale.

Radio Morocco quoted a French communique that French troops had occupied an important position and said that groups of French and Allied scouts had penetrated the Axis rear at unspecified points to a depth of 15 miles.

Allied planes moved up directly with the main British forces and fighter-bombers, operating from new advanced bases each day, raked the fleeing Germans and Italians with bomb, cannon and machine gun day and night.

A wild, chaotic battle was in progress for miles west of the main Eighth army as the armored columns closely pressed the Axis stragglers.

Even fighter-bombers were now operating as far west as the Ras Sultan area, 20 miles east of Sirte.

The rear of Rommel's main force apparently was now nearing Sirte, but thousands of men were struggling to escape far in the rear.

Middle Eastern command planes, including those based on Malta, maintained their offensive not only over the desert but as far as Tunisia and Sicily.

There was still no indication that Rommel would or could make a stand, even a delaying one, against the fast driving British Eighth army under Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery.

It had been expected that Rommel if he could would make his stand at Sirte.

There was good defense ground also to the west between Buerte El Hsun, 55 miles from Sirte, and the line south of Misurata, another 60 miles west, where the desert is slashed by the deep dried river beds, (wadis) of Bei El Chebir, Zemzem and Sofeggin

But dispatches from Tunisia reporting that the Axis was still pouring supplies and reinforcements into the east coast, combined with the haste of the Afrika Korps flight to convince military quarters that the Germans and Italians were reconciled to the loss of all Libya and would make their last ditch stand on the African continent in eastern Tunisia.

Dispatches indicated that the remnants of the big Axis force which Montgomery had trapped between the Marble Arch airdrome and Wadi Matratin had managed in the darkness to slip between two attacking Eighth army brigades, taking advantage of a number of dried river beds or wadis to scatter southward and then turn westward.

It was questionable whether this force would yet reach safety because it was believed that its tanks and transport must be running out of fuel.

Rommel had abandoned them to their fate, apparently, and it seemed unlikely that any fuel depots had been left for them.

Reports from Switzerland said that the Italian railroads were suffering severe strain because of the flow of German troops, tanks, artillery, trucks and air force squadrons southward toward southern Italy and Sicily.

Spanish dispatches from Rome strengthened indications that Tunisia would be the scene of the big Axis stand, though Madrid commented also that Rommel might try to hold Tripoli as long as possible to deprive the Allies of that big port.

Nazis Begin Second Don-Volga Drive

MOSCOW—(UP)—The Soviet high command indicated today that the Germans had begun a second big scale drive to free their armies trapped between the Don and Volga, on the Stalingrad front.

The Soviet noon communique reported that the Red army had beaten off fierce infantry and tank attacks southwest of Stalingrad. The Germans retreated, leaving many dead and 17 guns and other important materiel.

This report was preceded last midnight by official accounts of earlier fierce tank and infantry actions southwest of Stalingrad. In that fighting, the Germans succeeded in capturing a village, but did not hold it long. A Russian counter-attack took it back, killed "hundreds" of Germans and destroyed seven tanks.

U. S. Officials Prepare For Nation's Withdrawal From Conflict.

navy might, at that point, decide they have had enough of Benito Mussolini and his Fascists, and try to take Italy out of the war.

In any event, the collapse of Italy's war effort next year is considered a distinct possibility, and the state department wishes to be prepared for it.

Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's special envoy to the Vatican, has been participating in the discussions at the state department this week. Others who are taking an active part in the study and drafting of the preliminary plans include Assistant Secretary of State Adolf Berle, jr., and Leo Pasvolsky, special assistant to Secretary of State Hull in connection with post-war problems.

Particular consideration is being given to the economic aspects of Italy's position after it has been eliminated from the war. A report also has been drafted on the Italian colonial situation, especially with reference to the question of whether colonies are essential to Italy's economic life. The view prevails strongly in some quarters that they are not.

SEE BOOST IN LIVING COSTS

the government must either increase some prices or pay out huge sums in subsidies. He voiced the opinion that congress will not authorize subsidies.

Sen. Wheeler (D) Mont., said that he would fight efforts to provide subsidies for agricultural products rather than increasing prices.

"I am opposed to subsidies," he said. "It tends to put the farmers of the country under the domination of the administration and they have to come and ask for hand-outs."

Sen. Downey (D) Calif., chairman of a special agricultural subcommittee, planned to leave today to continue an investigation of conditions in California, Oregon and Washington. Downey declared that civilian economy will break down unless military demands are kept within proper bounds.

"I think that they will have to let prices increase somewhat," said Downey. "I look for it."

Price Administrator Henderson now is faced by demands from farmers, milk dealers, small packers and other for lifting of ceilings.

While some ceiling prices have been adjusted upward, the administration thus far has sought to avoid this, and instead has favored paying subsidies. This was done to help keep down prices of coal and oil, and is being tried on milk as to milk.

Congressional rejection of a subsidy policy, generally forecast, would leave no alternative but increased prices, say congressional students of the price situation.

Hitler Tells Them Not to Make Country 'Allied Platform.'

ANKARA, Turkey — (Delayed) —(AP)—An article appearing in Adolf Hitler's Berlin newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter shortly after the Turkish ambassador left the German capital for Ankara yesterday was interpreted by many Turks today as a thinly veiled warning to this country to observe strict neutrality.

"To those who play with the dangerous idea of holding their territory ready as a platform for Europe's enemies, the fate of Poland should be a warning," declared the Beobachter.

COAST TRAVEL CRISIS FEARED

(Continue From Page 1)

1. That whatever plan was evolved would remain in effect at least six weeks.

2. That the overall ban would be lifted Monday on B and C books for occupational and essential driving.

3. That the ban might be lifted completely and the value of the A coupon cut from the present three gallons.

Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile association said that the gasoline moratorium will remain in effect only until a new program designed to coordinate petroleum supply and demand can be worked out. He said that since 70 per cent of all motorists are A book holders "anything more than a very brief suspension of their coupons would place an impossible burden on the already overloaded mass transportation facilities."

Henry said that it is possible that B and C book holders will be given first relief, but he added that "we are assured that A coupons will be redeemable for as much gasoline as the supply will permit, and at the earliest possible time."

In the meantime, the only gasoline sold—except to commercial vehicles—was dispensed in one-coupon lots for "emergency use." OPA said workers in war plants would be permitted to buy gasoline in cases where their transportation to and from work depends on the getting of emergency rations of gasoline."

"We want it made very clear that this (the ban on sales) should not keep them from their jobs," an OPA spokesman said. Doctors and nurses were granted the same privilege when carrying out professional duties.

In addition, OPA directed filling stations to honor requests from cars used by the armed services as well as ration coupons presented by mail carriers.

BRITISH OPEN OFFENSIVE ON BURMESE FRON

It was indicated that the British advance continued toward Akyab, 90 miles inside Burma.

Royal Air Force planes, closely supporting the ground forces swept ahead of the army and heavily attacked Akyab and Rathedaung village 20 miles north of it at the mouth of the Mayu river.

Big Blenheim bombers blasted the entire Rathendaung waterfront and left many buildings in flames, and fighter planes made a savage offensive sweep along the Mayu.

Wellington bombers followed up with a night attack on the Akyab area.

Wavell's march showed his confidence in the great force which he has built up, including American army air force units, since the disastrous Malayan-Burma campaigns a year ago.

It was a brilliant retreat through Burma to India with a tiny army constantly threatened with annihilation, that first made Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery famous and sent him eventually to Egypt to smash the army of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel.

Reinforcement of India at a period when the Middle East, and in fact the entire Alied world, urgently required supplies, was an outstanding feat of the Allied production and supply systems.

Squadrons of heavy American bombers poured in and the British Indian army, always previously lacking in equipment, was reinforced.

For days past, the Axis had shown clear signs of anxiety over the Burma situation, and had put out a series of stories claiming Japanese penetration of India.

The Japanese had twice raided Chittagong, just inside India, asserting that a big Allied convoy was in the harbor.

British forces had penetrated deep into enemy territory in Burma on reconnaissance, feeling out enemy strength, and Wavell himself had taken part in one such operation.

Military quarters declined to forecast possible developments now, saying further details must be awaited before it could be made public whether Wavell would continue his advance or form a strong line which would put him in better position for future operations.

The possibility that China might soon be able to join in a double push into Burma was foreseen by the fact that Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, commanding the American forces in China, India and Burma, arrived in India this week from China.

Declares Burma Drive 'Not Offensive'

LONDON—(INS)—The Allied drive into Burma should not be regarded as a major offensive, Reuter's military correspondent declared today. On present information, he said, the thrust across the border should be regarded as a purely local action, designed to take advantage of Japanese weaknes in the area adjacent to the Indian border.

Enemy garrisons in the area can be supplied only by air or sea, and if the Allied drive can oust the enemy from the port of Akyab, all Japanese forces will be heavily handicapped by problems of supply.

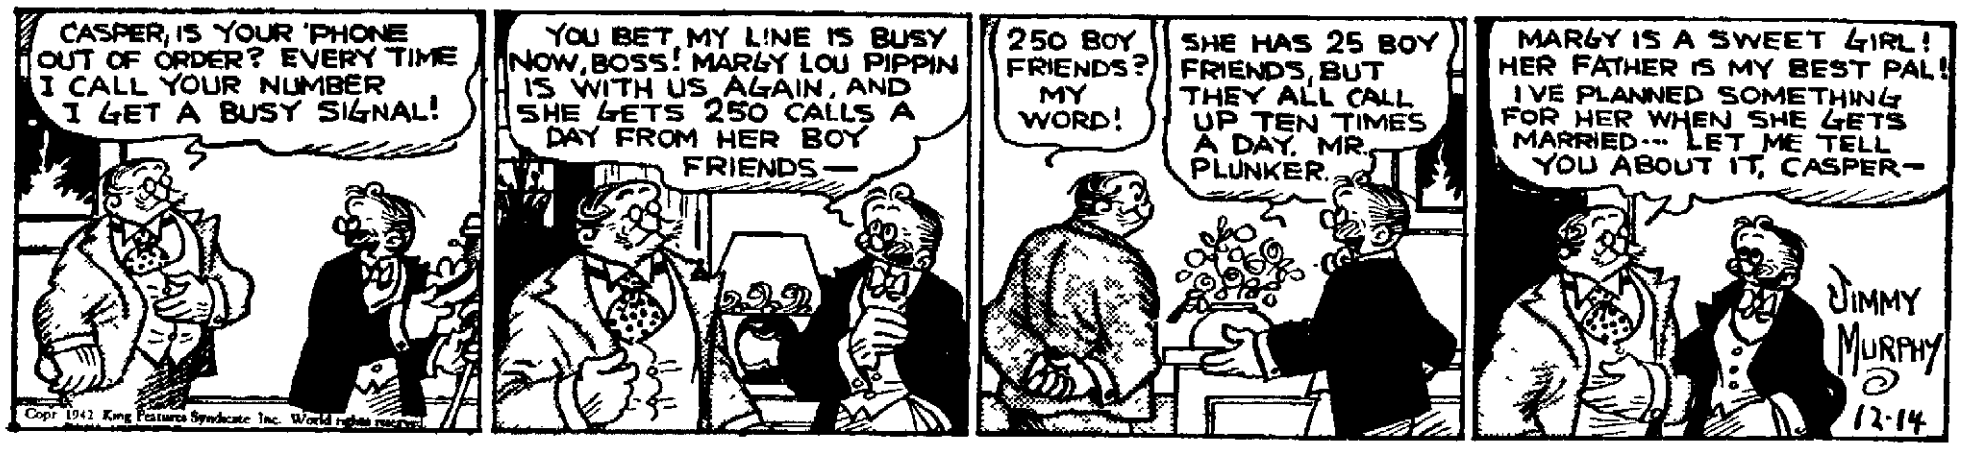
TOOTS AND CASPER



CASPER, IS YOUR 'PHONE OUT OF ORDER? EVERY TIME I CALL YOUR NUMBER I GET A BUSY SIGNAL!
YOU BET MY LINE IS BUSY NOW, BOSS! MARGY LOU PIPPIN IS WITH US AGAIN, AND SHE GETS 250 CALLS A DAY FROM HER BOY FRIENDS—
250 BOY FRIENDS? MY WORD!
SHE HAS 25 BOY FRIENDS, BUT THEY ALL CALL UP TEN TIMES A DAY, MR. PLUNKER.
MARGY IS A SWEET GIRL! HER FATHER IS MY BEST PAL! I'VE PLANNED SOMETHING FOR HER WHEN SHE GETS MARRIED--- LET ME TELL YOU ABOUT IT, CASPER—
JIMMY MURPHY

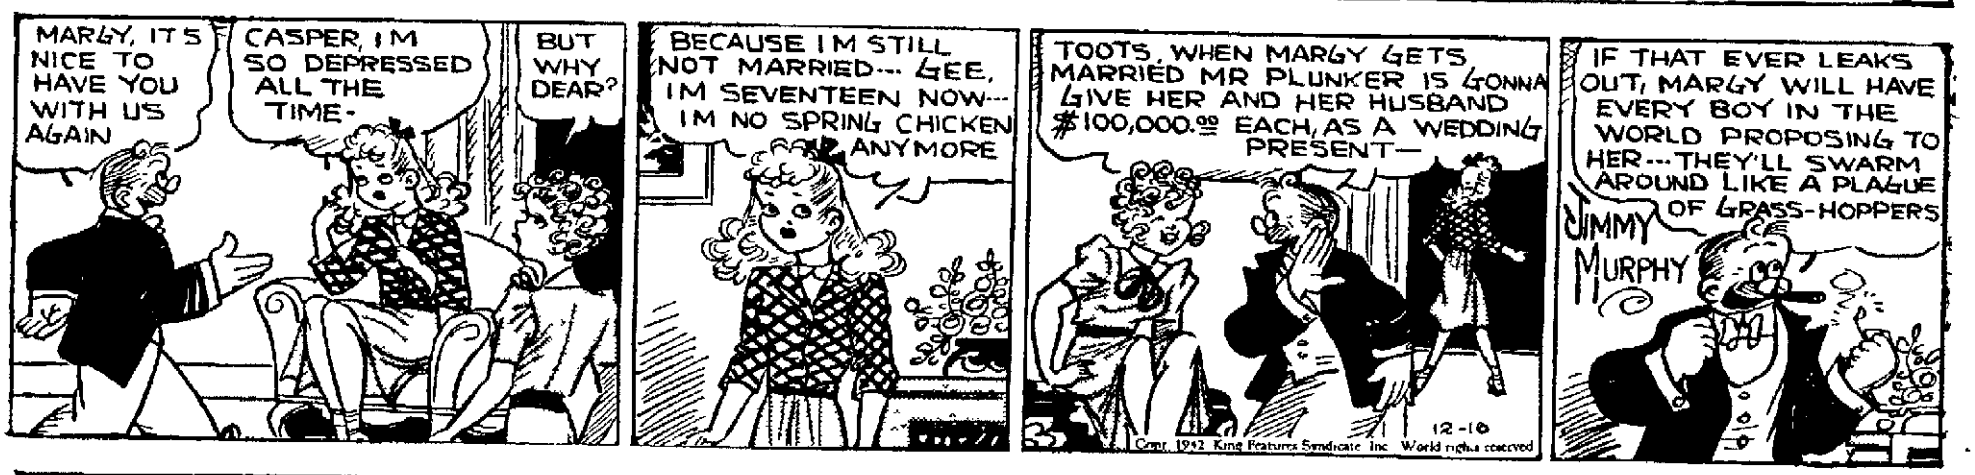
YES, CASPER, I'VE KNOWN MARGY SINCE SHE WAS A BABY--- HER FATHER IS MY BEST FRIEND --
SHE'S A SWELL GIRL, MR. PLUNKER
WHEN MARGY GETS MARRIED I'M GOING TO GIVE HER AND HER HUSBAND $100,000.00 EACH, AS A WEDDING PRESENT---
GEE, BOSS, THAT'S A LOT OF DOUGH--- WOWIE!
$100,000.00 EACH! GOSH, I NEVER KNEW THERE WAS THAT MUCH MONEY IN ALL THE WORLD!
12-15
JIMMY MURPHY



MARGY, IT'S NICE TO HAVE YOU WITH US AGAIN
CASPER, I'M SO DEPRESSED ALL THE TIME-
BUT WHY DEAR?
BECAUSE I'M STILL NOT MARRIED--- GEE, I'M SEVENTEEN NOW--- I'M NO SPRING CHICKEN ANYMORE
TOOTS, WHEN MARGY GETS MARRIED MR PLUNKER IS GONNA GIVE HER AND HER HUSBAND $100,000.00 EACH, AS A WEDDING PRESENT—12-16
IF THAT EVER LEAKS OUT, MARGY WILL HAVE EVERY BOY IN THE WORLD PROPOSING TO HER--- THEY'LL SWARM AROUND LIKE A PLAGUE OF GRASS-HOPPERS
JIMMY MURPHY

MARGY AND I ARE GOING SHOPPING, CASPER!
CONFIDENTIALLY, COLONEL HOOFER, THE BOY WHO MARRIES MARGY WILL BE A LUCKY KID-- MR PLUNKER IS GONNA GIVE HIM $100,000.00, AS A WEDDING PRESENT.
IT WAS DUMB OF ME TO TELL THAT TO COLONEL HOOFER--- IT MAY GIVE HIM IDEAS---
HMM-M-- MY NEPHEW IS SEVENTEEN, TOO--- IF I COULD FIX IT FOR HIM TO MARRY MARGY, THEN I COULD CUT MYSELF IN ON A SLICE OF THAT $100,000.00
12-17
JIMMY MURPHY

WISH I HADN'T TOLD COL HOOFER THAT MY BOSS IS GONNA GIVE $100,000.00, AS A WEDDIN' PRESENT TO THE BOY WHO MARRIES MARGY.
A PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS, CASPER
I WONDER WHAT MY NEPHEW LOOKS LIKE? HE'S SEVENTEEN NOW, BUT I HAVEN'T SEEN HIM SINCE HE WAS A BABY!
WHY DO YOU ASK, COLONEL?
SOPHIE I'VE AN IDEA OF HOW TO COMBINE BUSINESS WITH ROMANCE.
I'LL CALL UP AND GET THE LOW-DOWN ON MY NEPHEW--- IF I COULD STEER HIM INTO MARRYING MARGY, I'D CUT IN ON PART OF THAT $100,000.00---HELLO, CENTRAL- GIMME, LONG-DISTANCE-
JIMMY MURPHY

MARGY, MY NEPHEW, CARLOS, IS COMING TO TOWN SOON AND I WANT YOU TO MEET HIM--
I'D LOVE TO, COL. HOOFER.
CARLOS IS HANDSOME, WITH A SWELL VOICE, AND HE'S A GREAT DANCER-
OH, I'M DYING TO KNOW HIM!
YOU FRAMED IT FOR YOUR NEPHEW TO COME HERE AND TRY TO WIN THAT $100,000.00 BY MARRYIN' MARGY.
CASPER, IT WAS JUST A CO-INCIDENCE.
I 'PHONED LONG-DISTANCE AND ARRANGED FOR CARLOS TO COME HERE QUICKLY--- BUT WHAT CASPER DON'T KNOW WON'T HURT HIM--- I'M ONE GUY WHO WON'T MISS THE BUS WHEN THE DOUGH IS HANDED OUT.

SECRET AGENT X-9

NOW, ANNA, STOP FRETTING! JOE WILL PUT YOU ON THE BUS AND I'LL BE HOME TO-MORROW!
OH, ERIC! YOU TAKE SUCH CHANCES! I'M SO AFRAID FOR YOU!
NONSENSE! TAKE HER TO THE BUS-STOP, JOE... AND SEE SHE GETS ABOARD!
OKAY!
AH, GOOD EVENING, MISS SALEM! YOU'LL SOON BE FREE IF X-9 KEEPS OUT OF THIS! I'VE WARNED HIM YOU'LL DIE IF HE DOESN'T!
AW GO TWIDDLE YOUR BEARD!
IN ANOTHER ROOM OF THE FARMHOUSE...
THAT AWFUL MAN WITH THE WHISKERS SAID MY DADDY'S COMING FOR US TONIGHT, EMMA! OH, I WISH HE'D HURRY! I WANT TO SEE MY MOTHER....
SO YOU GOT ANNA ON THE BUS ALL RIGHT? GOOD! HERSHEY'S COMING AT MIDNIGHT WITH THE MONEY!
WHAT ABOUT SAVANNAH SALEM?
SHE GOES WITH US... AS PROTECTION IF X-9 TRIES ANY MONKEY BUSINESS!
HOW WILL HE KNOW SHE'S WITH US?
HE KNOWS IT... I PHONED HIM! EVERYTHING'S FIXED, SO STOP ASKING FOOL QUESTIONS!
ALL I CAN SAY IS I WISH I WAS OUT OF IT!
IT'S NOT TOO LATE! THERE'S THE DOOR, IF YOU WANT TO GO...
AND GET SHOT IN THE BACK AS I GO THROUGH IT? NO, THANKS, I'LL STICK!
X-9 GROWS IMPATIENT.....
MR. HERSHEY? ANYTHING YET?.... NOT A THING, EH? I CAN'T UNDERSTAND IT!
HE WAS LYING... I'M SURE OF IT! HE'S HEARD FROM THE KIDNAPPERS, BUT HE'S AFRAID TO TELL ME! ALL RIGHT... I'LL FIGHT THIS OUT ALONE...
LATER
CALL UP MR. HERSHEY, FRED, AND TELL HIM HIS CAR IS HERE!
OKAY, TOM!
HM-M- I THOUGHT SO... HE IS TAKING THE MONEY TO THE KIDNAPPERS!
WITH THIS CAR, I'LL BE ABLE TO TRAIL HIM... WISH HE'D HURRY... I'M WORRIED ABOUT SAVANNAH....
OH, HOWARD! I CAN'T BEAR TO SEE YOU GO! IF ANY-THING SHOULD HAPPEN...
DON'T WORRY, DEAR! I'LL BE BACK WITH OUR LITTLE GIRL BEFORE YOU KNOW IT!
AH... THERE HE IS! GOOD THING THERE'S A MOON... I'LL HAVE TO DRIVE WITHOUT LIGHTS, SO HE WON'T KNOW HE'S BEING FOLLOWED...
AT THE HIDE-OUT....
ALL RIGHT, JOE... TIME TO GET GOING! BRING THE CAR FROM THE GROVE AND PARK IT BY THE HIGHWAY, FACING NORTH! BE SURE THE TAIL-LIGHT'S ON!
YEAH, SURE!
NOW FOR THAT NOSEY SALEM GIRL... THIS WILL KEEP HER QUIET!
ALL RIGHT, MISS SALEM! COME ALONG! IT'S ALL OVER!
ALL OVER? YOU MEAN...
THIS IS WHAT I MEAN! AND IF X-9 BUTTS IN, IT'LL BE JUST TOO BAD FOR YOU...
ERIC, YOU... YOU HAVEN'T KILLED HER?
OF COURSE NOT! JUST A WHIFF OF CHLOROFORM! HELP ME PUT HER IN THE CAR! WE'LL USE IT TO MAKE OUR GET-AWAY, AND IF THINGS GET TOO HOT, WE'LL SET IT ON FIRE!
BUT, BUT WHAT ABOUT HER? SHE'LL BURN...
THAT'S X-9'S WORRY! I'VE WARNED HIM WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF HE MIXED IN THIS TONIGHT... AND I MEANT IT!
GREAT GUNS, ERIC! DO YOU MEAN YOU'LL BURN SAVANNAH ALIVE?
EXACTLY! I'VE WARNED X-9... LET HIM KEEP OUT! NOW, BRING THE KID AND HER NURSE DOWN HERE! HERSHEY WILL BE ALONG ANY MINUTE!
X-9, DRIVING WITHOUT LIGHTS, IS FOLLOWING HERSHEY'S CAR...
HERSHEY SPIES THE SIGNAL...
AH! THE TAIL-LIGHT!
MR. HERSHEY? YOU HAVE THE MONEY?
YES! YES! AND I'VE PLAYED SQUARE, TOO! I SWEAR IT!

BIG SISTER

BOY, THIS IS THE VERY PLACE! FEEL THAT UP-DRAFT!
WHAT'TH THAT GOT TO DO WITH FLYIN' THE GLIDER?
12-14
MISTER, I SAID I'D MAKE THIS THING FLY ITSELF. NOW WATCH! I'LL DART IT OUT OVER THE CLIFF!
YOU GOIN' TO THROW IT AWAY?
SEE THAT? SEE HOW THE UP-DRAFT LIFTS THE GLIDER INTO THE AIR?
WELL, SCAT MY CATS! SURE ENOUGH!!
FORGRAVE
LOOK AT IT! I TOLD YOU IT'D FLY ITSELF!
IT CIRCLED BACK OVER US!
12-15
I SET THE RUDDER, SO IT WOULD DO THAT WATCH ME CATCH IT!
YOW!! BUDDY!! CATCH ME!
FORGRAVE
LISTEN MAN! WATCH YOUR STEP! IF I HADN'T CAUGHT YOU JUST THEN, YOU'D HAVE GONE OVER THE CLIFF!
BOY! WHAT A FALL I'D HAVE HAD!
12-16
YOU'D HAVE BROKEN SOME BONES, THAT'S WHAT!
THAY! WHERE'S THE GLIDER?
CRIMEE! LOOK AT IT! AWAY OUT OVER THE FOREST!
LOOKS AS IF IT'S NOT COMIN' BACK!
FORGRAVE
DAD BURN! LOOK AT THAT GLIDER GLIDE!
YEAH, LOOK AT HER! IT'S SAILED OUT OVER THE FOREST AND IT'S COMING DOWN OUT THERE.
12-17
SHE'S A GONER NOW!
GONER, MY EYE! THAT'S TOO GOOD A GLIDER TO LOSE. SPOT THE PLACE IT CAME DOWN, AS NEAR AS YOU CAN.
IT THERTAINLY DID FLY ITSELF
NOW COME ON! WE'VE GOT TO GO HUNT FOR IT!
FORGRAVE
AS NEAR AS I COULD TELL THE GLIDER CAME DOWN AROUND IN HERE SOMEWHERE!
I THOUGHT IT CAME DOWN NEAR THITH BIG TREE.
12-18
SEE IF IT'S ON THE OTHER SIDE. IS IT THERE?
NO! MAYBE IT GOT CAUGHT IN THE BRANCHES
JUST SO LONG AS THEY COME NO NEARER THIS WAY—
IT COULD HAVE SAILED DEEPER IN THAN THIS!
FORGRAVE
THAT OLD GLIDER ITHN'T AROUND HERE ANYWHERE OR WE'D SEE IT.
IT'S IN THESE WOODS SOMEWHERE. WE KNOW THAT.
12-19
MAYBE IT JUTHT GLID-ER; GLUD-I MEAN GLIDED FARTHER IN THAN THIS!
THEN WE'LL JUST HAVE TO GO FARTHER IN TO LOOK FOR IT.
ALL RIGHT, BOYS, HERE'S WHERE YOU TURN BACK. THESE WOODS ARE TABOO- BAD MEDICINE FOR LITTLE BOYS.

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

CONGRATULATIONS, YOUNGSTER! WHEN YOU CLIMBED THAT TREE YESTERDAY AND FOUND SMUDGE'S LITTLE GREEN BOX —
YOU SOLVED THE MYSTERY OF MRS. RANCE'S LONG-LOST BABY— WE FOUND SMUDGE'S DIARY IN THE BOX — THE DIARY REVEALED EVERYTHING WE WANTED TO KNOW
DID YOU FIND THE BABY? IS THE BABY SAFE? IS —
YES, THE BABY" WAS FOUND SAFE AND WELL — BUT, OF COURSE, HE IS NO LONGER A BABY— HE IS NOW A GROWN-UP MARRIED MAN WITH A FAMILY
MARRIED ?? GEE, BUT I'M A DUMB OX — I FORGOT THAT LITTLE BABIES GOTTA GROW UP — BUT NO MATTER IF HE'S NOT LITTLE, HE'S STILL MRS. RANCE'S BABY
DARRELL McCLURE
LIKE ALL PUZZLES, THE MYSTERY OF MRS. RANCE'S LOST BABY SEEMS VERY SIMPLE, AFTER YOU LEARN THE RIGHT ANSWER
WHAT A BLIND OLD FOOL I AM —
— SEEING THE SMUDGES EVERY DAY OF MY LIFE FOR OVER THIRTY YEARS — AND NEVER EVEN SUSPECTING THEY WERE THE HEARTLESS CRIMINALS WHO KIDNAPED MRS. RANCE'S BABY
TO THINK OF THE BRAZEN CREATURES SMIRKING AND HAPPY AS LARKS!
THAT WAS ONLY A MASK THEY WORE TO HIDE THE CONSTANT FEAR OF DISCOVERY AND PUNISHMENT THAT DARKENS EVERY CRIMINAL'S LIFE
DARRELL McCLURE
YES — NOW I REMEMBER THEY WERE ALWAYS UN-HAPPY — BITTER — QUARRELSOME
A CRIMINAL'S HANDS MAY BE FREE, BUT HIS HEART AND MIND REMAIN HAND-CUFFED TO HIS GUILTY CONSCIENCE
WELL, YOUNG LADY — YOU MIGHT JUST AS WELL CONFESS — I KNOW THE SECRET YOU ARE HIDING FROM ME
WHAT? YOU KNOW? I DIDN'T TELL —
NO — YOU DIDN'T HAVE TO TELL ME — I'VE WATCHED YOU DANCING AROUND THE HOUSE LIKE A HAPPY SUNBEAM — SUDDENLY, I KNEW THE ANSWER —
SOMEONE IS COMING HERE SOON — SOMEONE WE LOVE — BRINGING JOY AND HAPPINESS
GEE, MRS. RANCE — HOW DID YOU KNOW ?
DARRELL McCLURE
THE CALENDAR TOLD ME — IT'S A LONG TIME SINCE I WAS A LITTLE GIRL — BUT I REMEMBER THAT WHEN THE MONTH OF DECEMBER ARRIVED, I KNEW SANTA CLAUS WAS COMING TO OUR HOUSE
OH!
— AN' THEN MRS. RANCE SEZ", I KNOW YOUR SECRET. SOMEONE WE'VE BEEN WAITIN' FOR TO MAKE US HAPPY WILL SOON BE HERE" — I THOUGHT SHE FOUND OUT HER LITTLE LOST BABY IS COMING HOME —
BUT SHE WAS TALKIN' 'BOUT SANTA CLAUS
BLESS HER KIND HEART! IN A FEW DAYS SHE'LL BE HUGGING A REAL CHRISTMAS PRESENT
— WE'VE CHECKED EVERYTHING — BIRTH-MARK — LOCKET — BABY CLOTHES — ALL PROVE HE'S THE KIDNAPED BABY — THE HUSBAND OF THE HONEST OLD COUPLE WHO ADOPTED HIM, IS ALIVE AND WILL TESTIFY AGAINST THE SMUDGES —
DARRELL McCLURE
I'D LIKE TO HAVE SEEN JOEL M. WALKER'S FACE WHEN THEY TOLD HIM HIS REAL NAME IS ROBERT RANCE
I'D LIKE TO'VE SEEN HIS FACE WHEN THEY TOLD HIM HE WAS SOLE HEIR TO OVER A MILLION DOLLARS!
I KNOW IT'S TRUE, BUT I CAN HARDLY BELIEVE IT! TO THINK, MRS. RANCE'S LITTLE LOST BABY IS COMING HOME TO HIS MOTHER, AFTER SO MANY LONG YEARS
HONEST — I KIN HARDLY WAIT TO SEE HIM — I'LL BETCHA HE'LL BE TERRIBLE NICE — GEE —
HE HAD TO WAIT UNTIL THEY HAD ALL THE PROOF THAT HE WAS REALLY ROBERT RANCE
IT'S A HAPPY MAN HE MUST BE TODAY — FINDING HIS MOTHER WASN'T ENOUGH — HE HAD TO FIND MILLIONS OF DOLLARS AT THE SAME TIME — AND HIM AS POOR AS A CHURCH MOUSE
I GUESS THE MONEY WON'T MAKE ANY DIFFERENCE — GEE, IF I COULD FIND OUT I HAD REAL FOLKS, I'D BE SO HAPPY I BETCHA I WOULDN'T CARE WHETHER THEY WERE RICH OR POOR
DARRELL McCLURE
TELL ME, ANNIE — HAVE YOU NOTICED DEBBY HAS BEEN ACTING VERY STRANGELY FOR THE LAST FEW DAYS? I AM WORRIED —
DON'T YOU WORRY, MRS. RANCE — EVERY-THING'S JUST LOVELY —
ARE YOU SURE? ONE MINUTE, SHE'S LAUGHING — THE NEXT MINUTE SHE'S CRYING — DEBBY IS THE BEST FRIEND I HAVE IN THE WORLD — IF ANYTHING IS WRONG —
HONEST AN' HOPE TO DIE — DEBBY IS CRYIN' AN' LAFFIN', 'CAUSE SHE'S SO HAPPY — SHE JUST CAN'T HELP ACTIN' KINDA GOOFY — IT'S A SECRET — BUT SHE'LL TELL YOU 'BOUT IT PRETTY SOON —
GOOD HEAVENS, CHILD! IS SHE PLANNING TO GET MARRIED? OR — OH, NO, MA'AM — IT'S MUCH BETTER THAN JUST GETTIN' MARRIED — BUT JUST WAIT A LITTLE BIT. AN' YOU'LL KNOW WHAT THE HAPPY SECRET IS

The $64 Questions.

(Are You a Broadway Quiz Kid?)

Have you seen Peggy Hopkins Joyce's new platina fox coat, full length—and do you think it's just a coincidence that her latest Romeo is a furrier? . . . Have you heard the night spot owners singing the annual pre-Christmas blues?

Kilgallen

Is it true that that playboy's sixth estranged wife hasn't dried her eyes since they separated Saturday, and that she left all her diamonds and fabulous furs behind at his Savoy-Plaza suite before entraining for home (Andrews, S. C.) and mother.

Is it true that George Jean Nathan is trying to get permission from William Saroyan to have George Jessel produce and star in "Get Away, Old Man?" . . . Don't you think the decor of El Morocco is immensely improved by the presence of Gary Cooper?

Do you know that Sigrid Lassen, the singer, is telling her intimates that the ring on her significant finger was put there by Lieut. William Hawkins, now in the Solomon Islands?

Do you think Bruce Cabot and Babs Beckwith really care? . . . Hove you seen the charts on the Copacabana tables, mapping the fire exits? . . . Is Bob Crosby definitely breaking up his band to do a single in the movies?

Did you know that Jane Pickens' mama will soon have her first book published? . . . Is it true that Columbia has definitely shelved "The American Way," which they were going to do as a tremendous spectacle? . . . Doesn't it make you livid that short dinner gowns and the shortage of sheer stockings had to happen simultaneously?

Did Barbara Daly, red-headed model who used to date with one of the richest young men in the world, marry the heir to another wealthy clan in South Carolina three weeks ago? . . . Do you know that restaurant prices are as much as 30 per cent higher than last year?

Is Adolphe Menjou taking a full time short-wave broadcasting job with the OWI for the duration? . . . Do you know which Washington, D. C., newspaper offered Mme. Litvinoff a semi-permanent berth as a drama critic?

Is it true that Mrs. Eddie Rickenbacker turned down the most lucrative magazine offer of the year to write the story of her husband's rescue as told by him to her? . . . Is beer to be on the ration lists soon, because those copper coils are more important in war plants than in draught systems?

Have you mailed your Christmas cards yet, and whatsmatta—don't you want the mailman to have a day off?

Do you know that although "Strip Polka" is banned on the airwaves, many of the small record request programs slip it in? . . . Do you think Diana Barrymore's studio bosses know about the hilarious impersonations she does of them?

Is it true that Edna Ferber is excited about her new idea for a play, and that she wants George S. Kaufman to collaborate with her again? . . . Do you know that a big recording executive confided the other day that there will be practically no new records available after Jan. 1?

Aren't "championship" bouts pretty much of a farce these days, with most of the real champions in the armed forces? . . . How come Wendell Willkie, the film executive, didn't recognize glamour girl Ann Rutherford when she sat next to him at "Counsellor at Law" the other night?

Does Ann Graham, the Riobamba's pretty m. c think it's a secret that she meets her heartthrob in a secluded corner of the balcony at the Red Coach Tavern?

Do you know that there's a terrific shortage of the stuff that goes into Santa Claus' beards and wigs, so most Kriss Kringles around town have substituted inflammable absorbent cotton, which is why they can't smoke in costume?

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Profligate use of the bustle in movie period pieces is a new casualty in the material-saving campaign. Sketches for bustled costumes for Alice Faye and a chorus of 20 for a musical number of "Hello, Frisco, Hello"—period 1900—came back from the workroom with rear elevations blue-penciled.

Coons

M. Marks has only a small role in "Mission to Moscow" but he stands out on today's call sheet. It's a page full of distinguished names, great in the diplomatic world, plus a few distinguished for intrigues on behalf of the Axis nations' ambassadors, generals, marshals, military attaches. And at the bottom: "Timid Man."

That's M. Marks.

Peter Van Eyck had worked around the theater and written some songs in New York before coming to Hollywood with his wife a year and a half ago. The wife, Ruth Ford, had a movie contract, and Peter hoped to get a job of acting too. When he didn't he went to work for a furniture company, driving a delivery truck. He has a movie role now — Tonder in "The Moon is Down." Heard they were looking for an actor, went and asked for a test, and won hands down.

But his truck-driving career, as a prelude to acting, wins him a special niche. In Hollywood most unemployed husbands of actresses are content to write themselves off vaguely as "writers" and let it go at that.

Twentieth Century has used 11,000 postage stamps answering inquiries about the filming of "The Song of Bernadette."—many of them, of course, asking for the title role. The "unknown" who will play it may be Linda Darnell—or Anne Baxter, Jennifer Jones, Teresa Wright, or Mary Anderson. The picture starts in February.

Mary Anderson, the little brunette from Broadway's "Guest in the House," has taken over the juke box business of Leonard M. Behrens, who is now an apprentice seaman in San Diego. She's bought two books on bookkeeping, and she manages to make the rounds, switch records, and count the nickels.

Veronica Lake is hard to recognize off-screen because she wears her hair pushed back — on both sides. "You wouldn't want me to play-act all the time, would you?" she says.

Veronica commutes from her home in Seattle where her husband is stationed militarily. Another commuter will be Alice Faye, who has leased a place on Catalina Island and expects to spend time there to be near her husband, Lt. (J. G.) Phil Harris of the Merchant Marine.

REPORTS RISE IN AMERICA'S BILL FOR FOOD

Perkins Reveals 1 Per Cent Jump In Month as OPA Fixes Meat Prices.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Labor Perkins today reported a further increase in America's rising food bill as the OPA took another step to control increasing meat prices by setting specific dollars and cents ceilings on lamb and mutton.

Miss Perkins said that food prices jumped 1.2 per cent between Oct. 15 and Nov. 15 and at the same time disclosed that the general cost of living advanced 8.4 per cent since last May and approximately 20 per cent in most cities since December a year ago. An increase of 21 per cent was reported over August 1939.

According to the labor department's price index, total living costs for city families increased seven-tenths of one per cent during the Oct. 15-Nov. 15 period while foods controlled by the OPA moved ahead .5 per cent and uncontrolled foods advanced 6.6 per cent.

The secretary attributed the major part of the living cost increase in the November-October period, to rising food prices, greater charges for personal and professional services and the new excise taxes on cigarettes, telephone calls and railroad fees.

The largest increase in living costs since last December—21.8 per cent—was reported by Seattle. Following in order were San Francisco, Savannah, Buffalo, Los Angeles, and Baltimore. The lowest percentage of increase—15.9—was reported for Houston, Tex.

In her report, Miss Perkins said that all but about 12 per cent of the normal family budget is now under federal government control.

The OPA's latest price ceilings on meat permit mutton wholesalers and retailers a three cent increase over September, but generally reduce lamb wholesale levels.

In setting the nation's prices on these two meats, the OPA advised housewives that current retail lamb ceilings would be retained "at least for the time being." These ceilings are now based on the top prices of individual butchers between July 27-31, 1942.

WANTS TO PEEK

OWI Requests Hollywood to Show It Films, Scenarios.

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Hollywood, which prides itself on knowing all the answers, found itself asking "What's it all about?" today as it scanned a government request that screen treatments and scenarios of all motion pictures be submitted to the Office of War Information before they are produced.

The request, contained in a letter which studio spokesmen said was signed by Lowell Mellett, chief of the OWI's motion picture bureau, was laid before the major producers at a session yesterday, and after a long conference the executives left, saying nothing for publication.

Nelson Poynter, head of the OWI Hollywood office, declared the new plan merely an extension of current practice and would not constitute blanket censorship since OWI has advisory powers only.

MORE PAPERS RAISE PRICES

Philadelphia Record and Inquirer Boost Sunday Edition Charge.

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The Philadelphia Inquirer and the Philadelphia Record announced that the price of their Sunday editions would be increased from 10 cents to 12 cents, effective next Sunday, due to increase in production and distribution costs.

Rising costs have caused more than half the daily newspapers in the United States to raise at least some portion of their circulation rate structures since the start of the war in 1939, Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers association said.

The A. N. P. A. is conducting a survey of daily newspapers on circulation rate changes in 1942, and while still far from complete, returns thus far show 648 papers have announced advances.

YULE PAROLES

102 Receive Holiday Releases From Reformatory.

There have been 102 Christmas paroles granted to inmates of Ohio State reformatory, Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke announced today. Of this number, 64 left Dec. 1 with a contingent of 42 leaving last Tuesday.

Present population is 1944. On Jan. 2 a group of 44 will leave the institution.

EMPLOYES GET BONUS

SHELBY—Approximately 1,000 employes of the Ohio Seamless Tube company received Christmas bonus payments today. Bonuses ranged from $10 to $100, depending upon the worker's period of service with the company. The $100 payment went to employes with five years or more of service.

SAYS HUSBAND ATTACKED HER 'LIKE A BEAST' BEFORE KILLING

(By Associated Press)

BISBEE, Ariz. — Velvet-voiced, convent-educated Margaret Hehliby was called back to the witness stand today to face a cross-examination attack upon her story that she shot and fatally wounded Capt. David Carr after he inexplicably went berserk and attempted to choke her to death.

The case was expected to go to the jury this afternoon.

Red-haired Margaret, weeping but struggling for composure, related to a tense jury on direct examination that the handsome officer she loved so desperately suddenly clawed at her throat.

Tragedy began unfolding, she testified, when, under the influence of liquor pressed upon her by Carr, she went through a Mexican ceremony. She was 21, he 27.

Miss Herlihy, who is charged with murder, said Carr had told her that he was married when he was a 17-year-old University of Nebraska student, but that he planned a divorce.

They were planning a church wedding, Miss Herlihy said, on the night of Aug. 14 when they visited Agua Prieta, Mexico. On the way home Carr stopped the automobile near the Douglas airport.

"Then," she related tearfully, "with no rhyme nor reason he came lunging for me and put his hands around my throat and said he was going to kill me.

"I got the heel of my shoe on his adam's apple and pushed him and managed to break the hold on my throat. I was terrified.

"He was making beastly noises," Margaret continued with a shudder. "He would say foul words and mutter and say he was going to kill me. It was just like fighting with a beast."

"As we drove into the driveway of my home," Margaret related, "I ran into the house as fast as I could run. He was coming right after me. I went to the drawer of my dresser where dad had kept a pistol. I thought I could stop him before he could kill me. The rest was blank from there on."

Mrs. Herlihy testified the shooting was in her bedroom. Margaret had fled to her mother with Carr in pursuit. She said Carr rushed at Margaret. Mrs. Herlihy said that as the girl threw up her hands to ward off the blow, the gun went off.

WINS LENIENCY

Father of 14 Receives Fine Suspension In Court.

Crashing a police cruiser proved expensive for Ervin Finlay, father of 14 children,, but even so he obtained leniency from Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch yesterday.

According to Patrolmen Earl Korn and Glen Adams, Findlay was under the influence of alcohol Wednesday night when his car swerved off East Fourth street onto South Diamond street missing three other autos but inflicting $9.72 worth of damage to the cruiser.

In court yesterday Finlay pleaded guilty of the charge but pleaded extenuating circumstances—14 of them—to win the court's mercy. Judge Kalbfleisch suspended half of a $50 fine when Finlay paid the damages to the city car. His driving right suspension was lifted when it developed he needs his car to come to his work in Mansfield from the family home near Little Washington.

Although the report of Plymouth's contribution to the Community War Chest was delayed a few weeks in order to gather every available gift the community today reported meeting its quota of $150 and raising an additional $32 for the chest besides. Don Einsel, chairman of the Plymouth campaign, made the report which is considered by War Chest officials as excellent since only half of the community is located within Richland county.

There will be holiday dinners for every man in uniform spending Christmas in Mansfield the management committee of the USO announced today. The Dominion Electrical Manufacturing company has volunteered to play host to the men in service and the only requirement is that the men in uniform first obtain a pass card from the USO Men's Service club. Arrangements have been made with Paulson's restaurant to serve the meals.

Tire conservation would be given a lift, Correll (Schroer's) Erdenberger pointed out today, if the city street department would clear away the ice and snow at least from the curbs of downtown streets. He said two cars had gotten stuck on North Diamond street today, and spun their tires futilely in an effort to get going. "Cars can't park in the middle of the street, but they can't get away from the curbs, especially on grades unless the snow, slush and ice is cleared away," Erdenberger said. "It seems the city could help drivers save tires if it cleared away the parking areas."

HURT IN FALL

One Injured In Fall; Skidding Auto Crashes Few.

Mansfield motoring, held to a minimum, was skillful and careful during the last 24 hours, according to police reports today showing only four non-injury collisions for that period but a fifth report reveals one man seriously hurt in a fall on an icy sidewalk.

Patrolmen Floyd Bowers and William Taylor found Hollie Killinger, 262 North Main street, lying on the sidewalk at East Sixth and North Diamond streets last night with a severe skull injury over the left eye. Bleeding profusely and nearly unconscious, the man was sent to General hospital in an ambulance. He was identified by papers found in his pockets.

An auto driven by William D. Brown, 85 Lind avenue, was damaged slightly when it skidded into the rear of a Rapid Transit company bus at Glessner avenue and Wood street.

Autos driven by Gus Chopreff, Roseland, and Paul Kulka, 538 Daisy street, were damaged when the Kulka car skidded into the other at Main and Sixth streets.

Harry Thorpe, Nova, and Harold Watson, Lucas R. D. 1, were drivers of cars which collided at Mulberry and Springmill streets.

Myrtle Welty, 156 West Third street, and F. W. Ridener, 471 Davey avenue, were unhurt when their cars collided at Wayne and Fourth streets.

RITES MONDAY

Michael Conner, Former Mansfield Resident, Succumbs.

Funeral services for Michael Conner, 53, a former Mansfield resident who died Friday in Cleveland, will be conducted at 9:15 a. m. Monday from St. Peter's Catholic church with Msgr. R. C. Goebel officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield Catholic cemetery.

Mr. Conner, who at one time was employed by the city, died in the home of his sister, Mrs. Alfred Hunt. His body will be removed to the Geiger Funeral home here Sunday morning.

TAKEN BY DEATH

Wilbur L. Mapes, 68, Native of Loudonville, Succumbs.

Wilbur Leroy Mapes, 68, a Loudonville native, who has many relatives in Richland and Ashland counties, died Friday in Akron.

Survivors include: the widow, Zella Mae Mapes and two children, Helen and Robert W., of Akron; three brothers, John, of Greenwich; Alva, of Cleveland; and Dale, of Akron, and two sisters, Mrs. Stella Breese and Mrs. Tillie Yehl, of Akron.

Funeral services will be held at the Ekard funeral parlors in Akron at 3 p. m. Monday, with burial in that city.

POLICE HUNT HIJACKERS WHO GOT $20,000

Touhy Gang Suspected In Pay Day Stealing of Armored Car.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — Authorities spread a net throughout Chicago and its environs today for four masked desperadoes who hijacked an armored car and escaped with $20,000 after wounding a guard.

The supposedly bullet-proof windows of the car were shatterd by high-powered rifle bullets one of which hit Anthony Gariffo, 28, the guard, in the right arm.

Police said they suspect the Touhy gang, including Roger Touhy and Basil (the Owl) Banghart, of perpetrating the robbery. With five other prisoners, the pair escaped from the Statesville, Ill., prison on Oct. 9 after a daring break in which a guard was wounded and an inmate was knifed. The men are still at large.

At the time of the holdup the armored car, owned by the North Town Currency exchange, was parked near the Buick aviation plant. It was pay day at the plant and near quitting time for a shift of workers who had received their pay checks.

Just before the whistle blew two cars drove up to the armored automobile which was in charge of Gariffo and John Fasulo, 30. Two bandits alighted and fired point blank at the so-called bullet proof windows of the car. The guards dropped to the floor, then fled.

One of the gunmen jumped behind the wheel of the cash car and raced away, followed by the two bandit cars.

Later the abandoned truck was found in Leyden township, a few pieces of silver and currency strewn on the floor.

Cries of Little Girl Lead Firemen To Injured Father

Searching the basement on the pleas of a little girl, Central station firemen and police at 2 a. m. today found Ord L. Wynn, 590 Harter avenue, concealed under a stack of waste papers and boxes, overcome by smoke and suffering burns resulting from a furnace explosion.

Wynn, seared about the face, head and arms, was taken to General hospital. Hampered by dense clouds of smoke which filled the basement of the Wynn home, firemen confined the flames resulting from the blast to a few charred rafters.

Mrs. Wynn told Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger that when rooms of the home became cold in the early morning, her husband attempted to increase the heat from the stoker-fed furnace, the explosion coming as he opened the door and poked into the coals.

Firemen said Wynn was burned when flames darted from the open furnace, his eyebrows being singed off indicating he likely was instantly blinded. As the cellar filled with smoke Wynn groped around for an exit but was trapped by the tumbling materials stored in a far corner of the basement.

After smoke had cleared from the room Wynn's little daughter insisted, "My Daddy's down there," and this started a search by firemen and Capt. Paul Whipp and Patrolman John Grohol who had been called by neighbors awakened by the blast. Wynn was extricated from the snare but was in a state of coma when taken to the hospital.

Churches Retell Story Of Christ's Birth at Christmas Exercises

All Congregations to Stage Special Observances Tomorrow; Pageants In Evenings Highlight Day's Events

By ELLEN CRAMER

The story of the birth of Christ will be retold in pageant and song tomorrow as Mansfield churches open special services for Christmas week.

All congregations have arranged appropriate exercises with ministers giving sermons on Christmas subjects, choirs presenting special numbers and youngsters in the children's departments appearing in playlets and musical programs.

All churches have extended invitations to the public to attend their programs tomorrow and candlelight and other special Christmas eve services Thursday evening.

Highlighting tomorrow's program will be two pageants to be staged Sunday evening, one at the Park Avenue Baptist church and the other at the First Lutheran church.

The pageant at the Baptist church was written by Edith Fletcher Jameson, director of music at the church, and Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran congregation.

"The Christ Child" is the pageant to be staged by Mrs. Jameson at the Park Avenue Baptist church at 8 p. m., when the doors will necessarily be closed since the action takes place in various parts of the church.

NOTICE TO PASTORS

Because of the Christmas holiday next week, pastors are asked to have their church notices for Sunday, Dec. 27, in the hands of The News-Journal church editor no later than 3 p. m. Wednesday, Dec. 23.

This applies to churches in the rural sections as well as to those in Mansfield proper. The rural church notices will appear on Thursday, Dec. 24. City church news will appear on Saturday, Dec. 26.

The play depicts the birth of Christ and is in four scenes, the annunciation, inn scene, shepherds in the field and the manger, to be done with colorful costumes, setting and lights.

Twenty-five persons will join in the choir's singing and a string ensemble being featured with several selections on the organ to be played by Robert Wervey. Solos will be sung by Mary Daubenspeck, Mrs. Sherman Skaggs and Willis Wygant.

The Virgin Mary will be portrayed by Miss Clarabelle Merryman and E. O. Morton is Joseph. Other characters are: Doris Ranck, angel of the shepherd: Ann Linder, small angel of light; C. O. Abele, innkeepr: G. F. Lake, angel of the annunciation; Rev. Albert L. Linder, the shepherd piper; P. M. Wooden, Sherman Skaggs, C. S. Lake, wise men.

Also in the pageant will be nine angels, six shepherds, six train bearers and an angel choir of 12 from John Simpson junior high school. Herbert H. Schettler will be the reader. In the string ensemble are Mrs. E. D. Gibson, Mildred Hart, Mrs. L. F. Honk, Ernest Shaffer, Paul Todd and H. A. Beilstein.

Mrs. Jameson has taken the familiar Bible story and staged it in pantomime with special Christmas music and carols carrying through the action.

At the First Lutheran church at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow Rev. Swoyer's play "Christmas For All" will be staged with a cast of approximately 80 in addition to a large choir directed by A. LeMoine Derr. The pageant is presented in three parts: "Promise" —about the Christ who was to come; "The Fulfillment" — the coming of those whom Christ expects."

Solo parts will be sung by Mrs. Stella Waddell and Mrs. Mary Anglin with Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" specially arranged for the choir. Mrs. James Clapper and Dwight McCullough are directors and Mrs. Clayton Bell will preside at the organ.

Although the story has a modern theme, character types will range from Gabriel, Joseph and Mary, to Roman soldiers, washerwoman, Chinese woman, sailors and lawyers.

Pageant to Be Given by Children

Sunday at 10:45 a. m. children of Grace Episcopal church will hold their annual Christmas service and pageant, "Peace on Earth," directed by Frances Brinkerhoff. Miss Louise Krause will play "O Little Town of Bethlehem" "A Christmas Cradle Song" and "Carillon."

Christmas services will begin with a festival celebration of the holy communion and carols at 11:30 p. m. Thursday evening.

The service will be preceded at 11:10 by an organ recital by Miss Krause. A male quartet including, Richard Starrett, Richard Wright, Rev. Glenn Lewis, and Paul Old will sing "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming" by Praetorius, and Wright will sing "Jesu Bambino." by Yon. There will be a service of holy communion in the church Christmas day at 9 a. m.

Grace church men and boys choir will sing the musical setting to the Holy Communion by Oldroyd. The gradual hymn will be "Angels O'er the Fields" by Dickinson, and the offertory anthem will be "Song of the Angels" by Dickinson. Miss Krause will play "March of the Magi" by Harker as the postlude.

Other services Sunday include Holy Communion at 9 a. m. Activities of the week will be choir rehearsals Tuesday 10 a. m. and Thursday 10:30 p. m.; choir luncheon and meeting Tuesday noon; College reunion party Wednesday 7:30 p. m.

Christmas Music, Special Sermon

On Sunday, the fourth week of the Advent, at the St. Mark's Lutheran church Rev. C. A. Portz has chosen as his subject, "John, Forerunner and Keynoter." Christmas music will include the choir's singing "Behold I Bring You Good Tidings" and organ selections played by Mrs. Geary.

The Bible school Christmas service will be held at 7:30 p. m. at which time the mesage will be presented in pantomime, recitations and special numbers by the young people's choir.

Thursday at 10:50 p. m. the Christmas eve candlelight service will be presented. Carol singing and special musical numbers will feature the service.

Special Offering To Be Received

The Cristmas program at First Christian church Sunday morning will include a special offering in the Bible school for the Christian children's home. At the worship hour when Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger will preach on the theme "The Meaning of Bethlehem," members will sit together as families.

Special music will be by the combined senior and young people's choirs when they will sing "O Worship the Lord" by Galbraith and the "Hallejuah Chorus" by Handel, a trio composed of Mrs. Bruce C. Rogers, Mrs. F. N. Brannon and Mrs. D. H. Hughes will sing "The Shepherds" by Kountz. Mrs. H. H. Clingan is organist.

At 4 p. m. Sunday the Christian Youth Fellowship will have its Christmas program and Miss Jean Shively will give the story. The annual Christmas program will be given at 7:30 p. m. by the beginners, primary and junior departments of the Bible school. A play entitled, "Oh Christmas Hill," will be directed by Mrs. George Lincoln assisted by Mrs. R. J. McCarty, Mrs. C. D. McVicar and Mrs. Hagelbarger.

Christmas Traditions To Be Sermon Topic

Rev. David N. Roller will preach on "The Old Traditions of Christmas" for 10:45 a. m. services at the First Presbyterian church Sunday.

The senior choir will present the anthem "Nazareth" by Buck-Gounod and the junior choir will sing "Christmas Eve." For the offertory solo Mrs. C. O. Anglin will sing "Cantique de Noel." Organ selections by Miss Mable Zehner will be "In Dulci Jubilo." "Adeste Fideles." "Christmas Pastorale," and "March of the Magi."

Two Services In Lincoln Heights

Two services tomorrow in the Church of the Brethren in Lincoln Heights will herald the Christmas season when at the 10:30 a. m. service the pastor, Rev. Roland L. Showalter, will have as his topic "The Wisdom of the Wise Men."

The Junior choir will sing the anthem "Come and Adore Him." Mrs. Vincent Kennedy will sing "Cantique de Noel" and a trio of flutists will assist in this service.

At the annual candlelight service at 8 p. m. a pageant, "The Way," by Ethel Gesner Rockwell, will be presented by a cast of young people assisted by the choir. White gift offerings will be received.

After the morning service, the O. B. F. class will meet for dinner in the church dining room. Mr. and Mrs. H. A. McElhaney and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Weaver are co-hosts for the event. Santa Claus will visit the group for a gift exchange. Mrs. Charles Myers is the teacher of this class.

League to Present Christmas Pageant

Rev. Charles F. Sheriff will take as his Christmas message the subject, "The Calendar of God," at St. Matthews Lutheran church Sunday at 10:30 a.m. The offertory number, "Shine O Wonderful Star," by Soechtig will be sung by the St. Matthews quartette.

The Luther league will present a Christmas pageant "The Holy Story," at 7:30 in the church. Mrs. Sheriff will assist in the reading and the quartette will furnish the muscal setting.

For the Christmas entertainment of the Sunday school Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the church basement a program of exercises, pageants, songs and recitations will be given by the children of the Sunday school. Santa Claus will be present to distribute the treat.

On Christmas eve at 10:45 p. m. a candlelight service will be held in the church with a program of musical numbers and a message by Rev. Sheriff.

Services Sunday To Be Combined

A combined Christmas service of Sunday school and morning worship at the Church of the Nazarene will be held Sunday at 9:30 a.m. Rev. Lena Brandenburg will deliver the sermon.

Joining in the holiday program of recitations and songs, followed by a dialogue, "Peace on Earth" given by Ruth Brandenburg and Lucille Heldenbrand, will be the junior department. Christmas carols will be the feature of the 6:30 p. m. service for the young people's group. The regular evening service is at 7:30 p. m.

'Helping Poor,' To Be Topic of Sermon

In keeping with the Christmas season and Rev. James L. Boyer's sermon on "The Christian Duty of Helping the Poor," the annual offering for the Otterbein children's home will be taken during morning services at the United Brethren church Sunday.

Special Christmas music will be furnished for the service by the choir's anthem, "I Bring You Good Tidings," by Ruebush, directed by Mrs. Elsie Ireland. A piano and organ duet, "A Christmas Meditation," will be played by Mrs. Lois Hoover and Miss Naomi Johnson.

The evening service will present the Christmas program of the children's division of the church, directed by Miss Mary Myrtle Yohn. After the children's part of the program, Rev. O. Singleton, general superintendent of the National Home-Finding society for orphaned negro children, of Irvington, Ky., will show motion pictures.

Christmas eve will be celebrated by two services, both at 7:30 p. m. The Young People's Bible class will meet under the leadership of Ralph Mount, after which they will go out Christmas caroling. The adult prayer service will be held at the same hour, with the pastor in charge.

White Gift Service Sunday Evening

Sunday school members of the Main Street Evangelical church will give their Christmas program tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. which includes the white gift service.

At the morning services the pastor, Rev. C. L. Kern will have as his theme, "What Christ Came to Bring." The choir will sing, "Shepherds 'Neath Jordan Skies" by Wilson and Miss Mary Jane Bellore will sing a solo.

The regular Christmas eve candle light service will be presented by the choir Thursday at 11:30 p. m. under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Tingley. "On Wings of Angel Song" will be the cantata with Miss Bellore, Helen Marlow, Geraldine Harley and Charles Hockett as soloists.

Special Christmas Service at Ashland

For the accommodation of Ashlanders of Episcopal faith, Glenn Lewis, rector of Grace Episcopal church here, will conduct a special communion service at the Presbyterian church there at 11 a. m. Christmas day.

Since there is no Episcopal church in Ashland, many Ashlanders have been attending services here. But due to gasoline rationing, it seemed more practical, Rev. Lewis explained, for him to conduct services there.

The Episcopal service of communion will be observed, the rector said.

Elder to Give Sermon at Chapel

At the Mitchell chapel pre-Christmas services will be held Sunday beginning with the Sunday school hour at 9:30 a. m. For the 11 a. m. service the first quarterly communion and conference will be held with Rev. R. C. Ransom, jr., Lima, presiding elder of the Cleveland district, delivering the sermon.

"Silent Night" will be sung by Mrs. M. James and the prelude, "No Room," will be sung by Mrs. La Verta Towls. During the morning service a program will be given by the Willing Workers circle with Miss Bernita Hawkins, presiding and Mrs. Kenneth Gordon, accompanying at the piano. The program includes solos and readings.

Singing of Christmas carols will be presented by the Willing Workers circle.

'Born To Be King,' Topic of Sermon

"Born to Be a King" will be the subject of the Christmas sermon by Rev. Albert L. Linder at the Park avenue Baptist church Sunday morning.

Music during the worship hour includes "Nativity" and "Joseph est bien Marie" played by Robert Wervey, a solo "Star of the Orient" by Mrs. Edith Fletcher Jameson and choir numbers, "On a Morning Long Ago" and "The Lord's Prayer" by York.

Activities include Baptist youth fellowship, 6:30 p. m. Sunday; junior choir 4 p. m. Monday and Christmas party and program, Tuesday at 7 p. m.

Evening Service Opens Exercises

Two special Christmas services will be presented at the Foursquare Gospel church this week, the first one being tomorrow at 7:45 p. m. when Rev. Paul Hunter will preach on the message, "No Room in the Inn." A pantomime of the nativity will be portrayed and carols will be sung by the choir.

Tuesday at 7:45 p. m. the Sunday school will present their own program of recitations and songs under the direction of Mrs. Fisher, superintendent. The young people directed by Mrs. Hunter will give a patriotic drama in three acts entitled, "My Soldier Son."

Central Church to Stage Pageant

The Central Methodist church will observe Christ's birth Sunday in a pageant known as "White Gift Christmas" taking place at the 10.30 a. m. worship service when those desiring to present white gifts for the Elyria home for the aged and the Berea home for children may do so.

On Wednesday evening, children of the beginners' and primary departments will give the regular Sunday school Christmas program consisting of the devotional, "Holy Night," after which songs and recitations will be offered. Mrs. Ray Paulson will have charge of the children's program and Mrs. Shriver will conduct the white gift offering with Mrs. Claude Ewing assisting.

Services to Be Combined Sunday

Christmas will be celebrated Sunday at St. John's church with the Sunday school and morning worship services combined beginning at 9:15 a. m. A program of songs, recitations, drills and tableaus is to be given by the children of the beginners' and primary departments.

The second service of the day will be the annual Christmas play presented by the main school departments at 7:30 p. m.

A Christmas worship and sermon will be presented in a holy night candlelight service Thursday from 11 p. m. to midnight including "Cathedral Chimes at Christmas Eve," "Cradle Song," "Curfew Bell," and the "Hallelujah Chorus," to be played by Mrs. Helen Heston, church organist.

Anthems will be "Let Us Now Go Even Unto Bethlehem" and "The Angels' Son" by the choir under the direction of John C. Klinger. Rev. Paul H. Saleste will preach on the theme "Christmas Power."

There will be 1000 candles used in the candlelight service supplemented by a Christmas tree with 300 lights for this annual Christmas eve service at the church.

Pastor Speaks on 'Where Moses Failed'

Sermon by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer tomorrow morning at the First Lutheran church will be "Where Moses Failed" During the Sunday school hour the primary and junior departments will have a Christmas program.

A special Christmas eve service has been planned for 11:30 p. m. Thursday when holiday organ selections will be "Christmas Evening," "Musette," "Rhapsoday on Old Carol Melodies" and "Silent Night," Anthems will be "The First Christmas Morn" and "Sing Christmas Bells."

Rev. Swoyer will speak on the theme, "God Is With Us." Miss Betty Austin is scheduled to sing the offertory solo and the "Hallejuah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah" will be the concluding anthem.

Lesson-Sermon Topic Announced

"IS THE UNIVERSE, INCLUDING MAN, EVOLVED BY ATOMIC FORCE?", is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in the Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday. It will have for the golden text: "Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world" (Acts 15:18).

Included in the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon are passages from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

Bring Gifts For Needy Sunday

Mayflower Congregational church will observe Christmas tomorrow morning during the Sunday school session by bringing gifts which will be distributed to the needy. The Junior choir, under the direction of Miss Helen Wolford, will sing "A Christ-Child Legend" by Oley Speaks.

For the worship service, when Rev. Elwyn Owen will speak on "Immanuel," two anthems, "O'er the World in Silence Sleeping," by the sextet and "Thy God Reigneth" sung by the senior choir will be offered. Mrs. Owen is the director.

At 7:30 p. m. members of the Sunday school will be presented in a pageant entitled "Christmas in Coventry." Chairman of the play committee is Mrs. Phillip Ackerman. Music will be furnished by the primary department, the junior and senior choirs. Mrs. Giles Hamilton and Mrs. Owen will play "A Christmas Eve Memory" by Wilson and Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" arranged for organ and piano.

Members of the Pilgrim fellowship and junior and senior choirs will form a caroling party and leave the church at 9:30 p. m. on Christmas eve.

Men in Service to Be Remembered

At the morning service for First Congregational church members, Rev. Peter Young will preach on the theme, "O Come All Ye Faithful." One feature of the service will be the remembrance of the men of the parish, who are in military service.

Special Christmas music will include two anthems, "Kings to Thy Rising," and "Calm on the Listening Ear of Night:" a violin solo, "Meditation" from "Thias" and two organ selections, "Christmas" and the "Hallelujah Chorus" by Handel.

In the parish house at 6:30 p. m. a Christmas party will be given for families of the parish. Readings and a playlet, "On Christmas Eve" will be presented by several young children.

Services Sunday, Christmas Eve

Two special Christmas services will be conducted at the St. Paul Lutheran church Sunday at 7:30 p. m. and Christmas eve at 9:45 p. m.

Children of the Sunday school will feature a pageant "Christmas Symbols" Sunday evening and exercises, songs, and recitations will be included. The junior choir will sing "Break Forth, O Beauteous Heavenly Light" by Bach and "Sing We Noel," a French carol.

The annual carol candlelight service will be held at 9:45 p. m. Christmas eve. The junior and senior choirs will unite in singing "In Dulce Jubilo" a 14th century chorale, and "Holy Night" by Brahms. The church will be lighted entirely with candles.

As a fitting prelude to Christmas, Rev. Herman L. Gilbert will preach Sunday at 10:30 a. m. on the subject, "God's Peace in These Times." The choir will sing "March of the Three Kings," a provincal carol. O. L. Seybold, organist, will play "Lovely Infant" by Kreckel and "Joy to the World" by Hagen.

Before the adult Sunday school at 9:30 p. m. Miss Dorothy Blackstone will give a Christmas story set in Africa. Catechism will be dismissed for two weeks.

Pastor's Son to Aid In Service

Rev. Herbert S. Garnes will be assisted in the Sunday worship service at St. Luke's Lutheran church by his son, H. S. Garns, jr., a student at the Gettysburg Theological seminary. "Who Art Thou?" will be the pastor's sermon.

Senior and junior choirs fill be combined for the service with the latter singing "Thou Didst Leave Thy Throne," and Mrs. F. H. Cahall will have as her solo, "A Voice in the Wilderness." At 7:30 p. m. the children of the Sunday school will present the Christmas program.

Christmas eve service will be Thursday beginning at 11:45 p. m. with 15 minutes of music by Mrs. Minnie Marks Cahall, organist. The choir, under the direction of Miss Florence MacDonald will sing "The Morning Stars Sang Together" by Stevenson and "Nazareth" by Gounod. Rev. Garnes will preach the Christmas sermon.

Leads In 'Christ Child' Pageant

Clarabelle Merryman and E. O. Morton will portray the leading roles of Mary and Joseph in the Christmas program in the First Baptist church Sunday at 8 p. m. for the pageant entitled, "The Christ Child." staged under the direction of Mrs. Edith Fletcher Jameson. Shown above is the manger scene. From left to right is: C. V. Gannaway as a shepherd; Sherman Skaggs, one of the three wise men; Rev. Albert L. Linder, as the shepherd piper; Miss Merryman and Morton. Music for the pageant to be done in pantomime will be sung by the choir of 25 voices and several solos will be sung.

Wrote Pageant

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer has written the pageant, "Christmas for All," which will be presented tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the First Lutheran church directed by Mrs. James Clapper and Dwight McCullough. The pageant, which Rev. Swoyer has divided into three parts similar to the trilogy of Grecian times, has approximately 80 in the cast in addition to a large choir.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1942.

Drive carefully tomorrow—don't spoil your Christmas by having an avoidable accident.

Axis armies are having their weather troubles—too cold in Russia and too hot in Libya.

Superstitiously inclined folks are noting with considerable satisfaction that there'll be only one "Friday, the 13th" in 1943—but Hitler and Hirohito may have some other unlucky days.

Stage Set for OPA Changes

LEON HENDERSON'S resignation as head of the Office of Price Administration seems to have occasioned no surprise, and, if the war continues for any great length of time, there may be greater appreciation of Henderson's efforts to do a practically impossible job in a conscientious way.

It was Henderson's autocratic methods, rather than his general policies, that steadily subjected him to the shower of criticism and abuse poured upon him by millions of persons who were hit by his restrictive orders.

The things that Henderson was trying to do appeared necessary, as wartime measures, but they were so hedged about with annoying complications and red tape that constant antagonism was aroused instead of inclination toward willing co-operation.

The attitude of the Office of Price Administration, which seems to reflect administration ideas in general, has appeared to be based on the notion that "everybody is considered dishonest until they prove their honesty," and the ridiculous penalties prescribed in connection with sugar and coffee rationing, and the expensive setup of rent control, brought such a wave of public resentment that the entire OPA plan lost favor.

Henderson, as the head of it, was no more than a victim of unfortunate circumstances and his retirement in advance of start-off of work by the new congress opens the way for further experimentation along more diplomatic lines.

His removal also helps solve an administration problem of finding lucrative spots for all of its supporters defeated at the November election.

'Small Business' to Get Attention

AN IMPORTANT bit of news that came out of Washington shortly before adjournment of congress was this small item: "The senate small business committee has summoned representatives of more than 50 trade associations of wholesalers and retailers to a conference January 19-21, on proposals to improve the credit system, to provide capital for expansion, conversion and re-entry of small businesses into the nation's economy after the war."

Many people, perhaps, have not thought much about "small business" in general, the vital part it has played in the American system of free enterprise, and the importance of sustaining it through a difficult time. Little business on the whole is as important as big business, and its disappearance would be a sad loss to the "American way."

Little business means personality, independence and variety in business life, as compared with the impersonal control that tends to develop in modern times. It may not be quite so "efficient" in some ways as its big competitors, but it is more human, and it performs many services better than its big competitors can do. One of the oldest and most cherished forms of American democracy must not become a permanent war casualty.

Useful Work Brings Happiness

A JEWISH Home for the Aged, recently held an "open house" for its friends and one of the features was a little play given by the old ladies. Its point was the difference between their occupations in 1900 and in 1942. In former years they "did nothing but sit around and wait for their meals." Some of them did a little knitting or fancywork, but it did not amount to much.

In the intervening years much has been learned about occupational therapy—the idea that there is healing and strengthening of mind and body by making things and doing things with the hands. So now the knitting of the lady of 85 has purpose. She makes useful things and has the sense of self-respect and power which go with the knowledge that her work means something. Another "young lady"—this one is a mere 83—is shown sorting scrap rubber and making money for war bonds in the process. All the people in the home are busier and happier than those of former years.

Idle people are usually unhappy people. The busy ones have little time to brood over troubles, and their sense of accomplishment is an invigorating force. There is a vast sea of latent power in people handicapped by age or other causes, waiting only to be tapped for the country's good. Now it is needed.

How the Newspapers Helped

MORE than 250,000 columns of editorial and display advertising space were given by the daily newspapers of this country to the scrap campaign. These columns were not sold, but given, freely and without hesitation.

Besides giving space, and often working hard to get the stories which filled it, newspaper collected 3,695,995 pounds, or 1,848 tons of scrap in their own plants. The average comes to nearly two tons per newspaper.

The three great news services, Associated Press, United Press, International News Service, and the trade magazine, Editor and Publisher, were also publicly thanked by the national committee in charge of the drive.

Meeting Africa's Gunga Dins

THE MODERN ARAB, with whom the American expeditionary forces are now getting acquainted, is mostly a simple-minded fellow who wants little here below and is willing to work hard for it. He is making himself useful in North Africa, in unloading ship supplies and various other services. His costume is a good deal like that of Gunga Din, but he doesn't mind. He is clothed in dignity, anyway. Pockets are unnecessary because he has nothing to put in them.

His working pay represents a curious merging of East and West. What he craves most is cigarets, and for unloading a ship or other useful services he cheerfully toils for one cigaret per hour.

None too soon to start making sure that the politicians do not take over where the fighters leave off.

Senator Norris Gains Popularity

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Defeat for re-election does not ordinarily increase a politician's prestige and influence, but it unmistakably has done so in the case of Senator George W. Norris, beaten in Nebraska last November for another term in the upper congressional chamber.

Since the Goldenrod state cast the ballots, it is a fair assumption that a majority of its folk are satisfied with the result they got, but congress' reaction to news that his commonwealth citizenry had turned thumbs down, at last, on the capital's oldest lawmaker, in point of service (nearly 40 years in the two houses, successively, and well on into his 80's on a count of birthdays), must have been something of a surprise to them.

As the campaign time approached, it will be recalled that the venerable Nebraskan announced he was retiring, having had enough public life.

All his legislative colleagues were horrified. Being an Independent, he did not belong to either group of them, but it wasn't on party grounds that they appealed to him to accept another nomination; it was because they felt as if the District of Columbia might about as well go out of business as to try to continue in operation with a landmark like George W. Norris eliminated.

Greatly Liked.

A great many of them had disagreed with the policies he had fought for, but they loved him personally.

I think he would have stood pat for retirement if this had been the only sort of pressure brought to bear on him, but he could not continue to resist when President Roosevelt begged him to make another run for it.

The result was no great mystery.

Agriculture generally has reckoned that it was being disregarded by the administration in the interest of industrial labor, and Nebraska is a violently agricultural state.

And if ever a candidate was identified with the New Deal administration, it's been George W. Norris. He's been agricultural, too, but he has made New Dealerish industrial allowances that farmers refused to acquiesce in.

Washington had not expected Norris' defeat. It was shocked. It had miscalculated. Undoubtedly the senator's defeat was the most substantial detail of the jolt that the administration got out of that last election.

Congressional Washington was scandalized, though, independently of partisanship.

Norris and Nebraska.

If he had been elected he would not have attracted nearly so much attention.

The proposition now is to give him a rip-snorting federal appointment. The senator now says he does not want one. That is natural. His feelings are terribly hurt. Nevertheless, his voice signifies a tremendous lot. He may HAVE to join it to the administrative chorus—to combine liberality all around.

He is too old for the United States supreme court.

Yet he is talked about as a court possibility.

He makes speeches every day or so.

How much he knows about future world peace if problematic. I may have my doubts as to that, but there is no doubt as to the excellence of his intentions.

And his INFLUENCE is tremendous.

I think it is international, as well as purely U. S. A.

And his defeat in Nebraska has advertised rather than discounted it as an influence. He is listened to today, as he never was before.

How Old Are You?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHY'D you tell that silly fib this morning? And fly into that childish tantrum last night?

For exactly the same reason that transformed Dillinger into a werewolf . . . and made Nero fiddle while Rome burned—

EMOTIONAL IMMATURITY.

Strange mixtures, we humans. You can never tell what's lurking beneath our transformations and toupees. Outwardly we may seem and sound grown-up . . . even outstanding brilliant. Yet at any moment we may break out in some amazing infantile or outlaw act.

Why? Because our development isn't balanced. MENTALLY we're mature; EMOTIONALLY we're children or savages.

The trouble starts in our ignorance of our own nature. Not one person out of a thousand realizes that human nature has different departments. Thoughts and feelings—we lump them together. But they are not together. Often they are dark worlds apart. You may be thirty in actual years. You may THINK as a person of thirty should think—

BUT DO YOU FEEL AS A PERSON OF THIRTY SHOULD FEEL?

Are you cool and collective under strain? Can you take things in your stride? Or do you magnify trifles . . . take everything personally . . . go into tantrums or anger or self-pity if circumstances don't please you?

David Seabury, the great psychologist, once said:

"THE AVERAGE MAN IS TWICE AS DEVELOPED MENTALLY AS EMOTIONALLY . . . HERE IS A KEY TO HUMAN SUFFERING, THE ORIGIN OF SELFISHNESS, CRIME, GOSSIP, WAR."

Trace any silly or vicious act to its source and you will find that this statement is true. Invariably you'll discover infantile emotions running amuck. Show-offs, smarties, bullies, conceited publicity-seekers — they are all expressing their own emotional immaturity.

Loeb and Leopold—those murderous young monsters—were unusually bright mentally. They had been splendidly educated—mentally. But emotionally they were stunted cripples. Spectators at their dreadful trial thought their callousness was a pose. It was not. They were entirely sincere. It was as impossible for them to feel normal horror, pity, tenderness or remorse as for a baby, an idiot or a savage.

This is all the more tragic because it is preventable. We are not born with "infantile fixations." We acquire them—or have been thrust upon us—usually at a very early age. Generally a doting or thoughtless mother is responsible.

Ego is as well developed at eight months as at eighty years. The youngster receives too much attention—or too little. Whereupon he proceeds to seek compensation or revenge. Instead of developing normally, the bruised spirit becomes "fixed" at an infantile period . . . the baby grouch becomes a life-long obsession.

You have seen it happening. Famous and talented men of fifty still boasting childishly, to offset humiliations suffered long since in some tenement alley. Neurotic women dominating a whole family with tyrannical demands, as compensation for some fancied slight or neglect. EMOTIONAL INFANTS OR CRIPPLES—ALL OF THEM.

And how about YOURSELF—or MYSELF? We're "of age" on all the registration blanks. But when somebody grabs the newspaper before we've read it, or borrows our best salad dish and breaks it . . . HOW OLD ARE WE THEN?

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Xmas" For Christmas.

To the superficial observer, Xmas is simply an abbreviation for Christmas. There is more to it, however, than meets the uncomprehending eye.

X here marks the place of Christ, for which name it is short and not sacrilegious. It comes from the Greek letter Chi and was used in such names as Xavier and Xerxes.

It is rare usage, the only instance that comes to mind where the connotation is similar being in the word "crisscross" for the cross mark as the signature of a person unable to write, "crisscross" being a corruption of Christcross.

The earliest appearance of X in the abbreviation meaning Christmas is in the 16th century.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Much Legislation Left Unfinished As Congress Takes Holiday Rest

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE 77th CONGRESS frittered away its last few days, calling quits during the week without waiting for its appointed term to expire Dec. 31. It will be remembered as the first of the World War II congresses and as one that left many legislative matters hanging fire from election day on for a new congress to worry about.

The 78th congress will hear President Roosevelt's personal report on the state of the nation and the war the day after it convenes. Then in delicate balance for the first time since 1933 with 222 Democrats sitting on one side of the house and 207 Republicans on the other, the new congress will face:

Republican demands for re-organization of the Office of Price Administration, reorganization and streamlining of congress' own procedure abolition of the National Youth Administration and the Farm Security Administration.

Republican demands that non-war spending be cut to the bone.

Democratic promises that non-war spending will be cut so deeply "we'll take out part of the bone."

Republican and Democratic maneuvering to recapture for congress some of the authority taken over by the executive branch under war emergency measures and some the 77th congress handed over by default.

Important wartime legislation including ways of putting federal taxation on a pay-as-you-go basis and of raising possibly six billion dollars in new taxes.

Henderson Quits.

Thursday brought the resignation of Leon Henderson as head of the OPA and signaled drastic changes in methods of handling the delicate and highly controversial work of this wartime department.

Everything was smooth on the surface, with Henderson giving "physical difficulties and impaired eyesight" as his reasons for quitting the difficult job.

And President Roosevelt, in quickly accepting the resignation, said pleasantly: "I shall certainly want your assistance in some other capacity."

Prentiss M. Brown, Michigan's Democratic senator who was defeated in November, is expected to be Henderson's successor.

At Home

Situations Wanted.

Like mortar needs cement, the successful political party needs patronage to keep the whole thing sticking together between elections.

Patronage stimulates the interest of party members, who turn out on election day to keep in office men who can deal out the patronage, and so on.

For the last 10 years, Republicans have had small portion of federal patronage, but the war ad its pyramiding agencies opened up some new fields. Now, old-line Democrats are pained to note that a lot of Republicans, as well as a lot of unaffiliated voters, have stepped into federal jobs while Democrats have been passed over.

During the week a senate committee determined to appeal to the president for greater voice in the selection of local personnel for war agencies. They're getting tired, they indicated, of having to hear the complaints of the folks at home over the stringencies of war regulations, without having a voice in how federal policies are to be carried out locally.

Jingle, Jangle.

A nation at war needs copper, bronze, nickel for its fighting machines—but so do the mints, to make the millions of small coins that circulate in increasing numbers on the impetus of the war boom.

To conserve war metals, the U. S. beat the drums in another campaign during the week, one to drive idle coins out of piggy banks, sugar bowls, baking powder cans, to have them exchanged for war bonds and stamps. Especially, Washington wants the two billion pennies estimated to be withheld from circulation.

Some Indian-head penny collectors got a jolt when they learned that these coins, not minted since the Lincoln penny made its appearance, are worth only face value.

Off the Reservation.

Just about the last place WAAC military police expected to find an A.W.O.L. trainee was the stage of a Des Moines theater. But there was Kathryn Doris Gregory, 22, of Fort Worth, Tex., entertaining a Thanksgiving day audience with a strip-tease number.

Back to the reservation went Kathryn (stage name: "Amber d'George") and into the hospital subsequently for treatment for a minor back injury. Came the court martial and Kathryn went out of the WAACS, with a discharge "other than honorable."

He Says No.

Michigan's Senator Arthur Vandenberg, favorite son candidate in 1936 and 1940 GOP presidential nominating conventions, during the week became the first member of the 1944 I-do-not-choose-to-run club. Vandenberg eliminated himself "so I may have far greater influence in choosing the right candidate."

Abroad

Rommel Runs Again.

From the German radio came the announcement: General B. L. Montgomery's British Eighth army, quiet for two weeks since it rolled from El Alamein through Tobruk and Bengasi, was on the march again, slamming into Field Marshal Rommel's narrow line stretched from El Alamein at the Mediterranean to salt marshes 40 miles southward.

It really was a big push, said Berlin, but wary Americans accustomed to little truth from the German radio waited wonderingly for confirmation from London.

Two days later the story came—and it was everything the Germans had said. With plane, tanks, artillery and infantry, Montgomery was roaring ahead, and the Germans were falling back almost without a defense. The Nazis moved swiftly, indicating that they either were unprepared for a large-scale holding operation at El Agheila, or that they planned to make their real stand at Tripoli, some six or seven hundred miles to the west.

But the wily Rommel made the British advance difficult; almost every yard of the way was planted with booby-traps, deadly explosives attached to objects strewn in the path of the retreat.

Interceptors.

If the German desert army hoped to effect a rendezvous with the Axis' 28,000 troops and heavy aircraft concentrations in the Tunis-Bizerte area, British and American forces were determined that the meeting be a hazardous one.

The Allied air strength, apparently at a disadvantage in the early stages of the battle, was growing daily and it hammered at Axis efforts to widen the arc in which the enemy had been hemmed.

By midweek, however, rainy weather was hampering all operations on this front. And the Allies apparently had been unable to pinch off the Axis' most potent operation—the daily arrival from Italian bases of a dozen aerial troop transports.

Hard Words.

Conflict over the Allies' deal with ex-Vichy French Admiral Jean Darlan in North Africa began to wear itself out during the week, but Darlan came through with his strongest indictment of his erstwhile associates.

In a radio message to Moslems of North and West Africa, Darlan urged active collaboration with the Allies, so they might" . . . drive into the sea the despicable Italians and their German masters."

In the Far East.

It was touch-and-go in New Guinea, with the Allies having the better of it although the Japs reinforced their garrisons at heavy losses. Gen. MacArthur's men seized Buna village after hard fighting, faced an even tougher assignment in conquering Buna Mission, where Japs are concentrated, and the last two Nipponese strongholds, Lae and Salamaua, northwest of Buna.

In the Solomons, big Japanese losses were reported in the rout of a destroyer force carrying reinforcements to Guadalcanal. At nearby Munda, Georgia Island, U. S. air forces blasted an airfield, perhaps in the first phase of an attempt to expand present American holdings in the strategic island group.

In the Aleutians, the Japanese remained on Kiska, but their position was obscure. An Alaska newspaper reported they were there for obvious reasons: The navy has destroyed all their planes and boats; they haven't any transportation out.

Death at Sea.

The 21,000-ton former luxury liner President Coolidge, with 4,000 U. S. soldiers aboard, was steaming through Pacific waters for an undisclosed destination. There was an explosion; engineroom men fought their way to decks, got into the last lifeboat before the ship settled and sank.

Washington announced a loss of only four men, said the ship hit a mine. Days later, Navy Secretary Knox said an investigation was under way, that "there is a question of possible fault," but declined to speculate on whether the mine was American or Japanese.

Quotes

Senator Vandenberg: "The post-war pattern of things to come is of supreme concern. It would be greatly helpful if our complex war objectives could at once be given simple and conclusive definitions."

Clement R. Attlee, British Dominion secretary: "Creation of a supreme allied war council sounds nice and logical but, unfortunately, it is impractical. You cannot conduct a war by means of a mass meeting."

In Short

Nominated: By President Roosevelt for a place on the civil aeronautics board, Oklahoma's Josh Lee, defeated for re-election to the Senate.

Won: By the Washington Redskins, professional football's "world series" with a 14-6 upset victory over the Chicago Bears.

Permitted: For the next six weeks, enlistments in the Navy and Coast Guard, for 18-37-year-old men not yet ordered up by selective service.

Granted: by the OPA, slightly higher price ceilings on 16 food items, including canned apple sauce, vinegar cured herring, egg noodles, fig bars and peanut carry.

Died: In Vatican City, Father Wladimir Ledochowski, 76, general of the 400-year-old Society of Jesus; his successor until the end of the war, Father Alessio Magni.

Health and Diet

Fuel Rationing Brings Hazards.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ANYONE who read my article yesterday on fuel rationing will understand that I do not regard low temperature as necessarily being a health hazard. Our homes and offices have been so overheated and kept so dry in the past few years that I believe this has dried out the mucus membranes of the nose and throat and induced colds rather than prevented them. Lower temperatures, with the body kept warm and the skin kept comfortable by added clothing, will probably be a gain rather than a loss.

Hazards do exist, however, especially with those who are changing over to older forms of heating, the details of which they may have forgotten. Probably the greatest hazard in changing over from fuel oil to other forms of heating will be the danger of setting the house on fire.

There is an enormous death rate that is fairly steady, occurring naturally mostly in the winter, due to people being trapped in burning homes. A large proportion of these fires are traced to dirty, overheated stoves, furnaces, flues and pipes. Experienced men should inspect all heating apparatus and their recommendations for cleaning and repairing should be heeded.

Precautions Necessary.

The average householder who has been using fuel oil may have forgotten some of the precautions he used to take when he was using coal in the furnace. A fire may be started from hot ashes carelessly placed in wood or other combustible containers or mixed with rubbish.

It seems superfluous to mention it, but there is still an enormous death rate among people who start or speed up a fire in the grate or stove by pouring on kerosene.

Open fireplaces in the United States have become more or less a thing of the past and the householder should be reminded that unless screened, these fires may be the cause of serious burns by setting fire to clothing, especially the clothing of children.

Gas or oil heaters without flues in poorly ventilated rooms, if allowed to burn for any length of time, may result in death from carbon monoxide poisoning. Anybody changing over to gas should be sure that all the detachable tubing is tight and sound so that leaks will not occur.

Disconnected Pipes.

Asphyxiation comes on not only from this source but also when coal stoves or furnace pipes become disconnected or rusted, or when the dampers are so set that partially burned gases escape into the house.

A great many people are planning to save fuel by keeping their windows closed, whereas under ordinary circumstances in the past they would always have some windows open—even on the coldest days.

This attitude of mind is a distinct hazard in itself, because an open window which admits ventilation will do much to prevent any possible danger from heating apparatus with which the householder may not be familiar, such as those mentioned above.

It is better to be uncomfortable, cold, or moderately uncomfortable rather than to take chances with the heating apparatus.

OPS ECONOMIST HOLDS MEETING FOR HOMEMAKER

Health For Victory Clubbers Told How To Meet Meat Shortages.

Meat rationing will bring no serious hardship to any American family and compared with other countries our meat quotas are very generous.

These were the encouraging words that members of the Mansfield Health for Victory club heard yesterday from Mrs. Irene Oberlin, Home Economist for Ohio Public Service, as she presented the subject of "Meeting Meat Shortages" at the regular meeting of the club in Westinghouse auditorium.

"Our present meat rationing provides for 130 pounds per person pe ryear, and the average yearly consumption from 1931 to 1940 in this country was only 131 pounds. So on that score we are not so bad off," she declared. "And from the standpoint of body requirements, we actually need only four ounces of meat, or first class protein, each day—or 28 ounces each week. So there is a surplus of 12 ounces a week over our body requirements."

To further allay any concern on the part of her audience, Mrs. Oberlin compared the rationing of meat in this country with that of European countries. The weekly allowance in Belgium is five ounces; Holland, nine ounces; Germany, 12.5 ounces; and in England, 16 ounces. "Compared with these, our 40 ounces each week looks very generous," she declared.

"But to make the most of our rationing," she admonished, "we need to know how to cook meat to get the most out of it." For doing this she described and demonstrated the use of meat "extenders" in preparing less expensive cuts—that is, using the meat in combination with other foods in realizing the best results in taste and tenderness with these low cost cuts. By demonstration she proved how these cuts can be made delicious and tender.

Mrs. Oberlin told her audience that all over America similar Health for Victory club groups were meeting and discussing this important subject of meat. Banded together in a national organization these clubs are designed to help wartime homemakers cope with the problems of serving healthful, balanced meals to their families in the face of the increasing difficulties due to food shortages.

The first Health for Victory club was organized at the Westinghouse plant here by Mrs. Julia Kiene, nationally known food expert and director of the company's Home Economics Institute.

In explaining the two methods of cooking meat, Mrs. Oberlin said that moist heat cooking, which always includes the use of a covered utensil, is braising, stewing, and simmering. These are long time cooking operations employing relative amounts of liquid. There are 29 different cuts of meat on the carcass of a beef that should be prepared by one of these moist heat methods, it was pointed out.

Meat is important in the diet every day, she continued, because it is a rich source of two minerals, phosphorous and iron. For vitamins, the B group are found in generous quantities as well as vitamin A in liver.

Considerable emphasis was stressed on the grading of meats by the United States department of agriculture. "Look for the markings stamped on each cut of meat you buy," she suggested. They are graded in the following way: prime, choice, good, commercial and utility. If it is marked "good" you can be assured of a satisfactory cut of meat.

A large group attended yesterday's meeting, and all received the January issue of the meal planning guide with lunch box suggestions for every day in the month. This monthly service for the members is produced by the Westinghouse Home Economics Institute.

Avalon Salon to Specialize In Beauty Service to War Workers

Inquiries relative Stories and Advertising on this page should be sent to M. Jo Wintermute, Mansfield News- Journal. PHONE 4251-6

Skin Care Consultations to Be Stressed By Mrs. Ehrman.

"Beauty is morale in the truest sense of the word," according to Mrs. Mildred Ehrman, proprietor of the Avalon Beauty salon, 73½ North Main street.

And that shop is displaying an enthusiastic interest in the beauty problems of a nation of women whose one thought and purpose is to aid in any way they can with the program for Victory.

Women carrying on here at home have a new standard of efficiency to reach and "looking one's best" means fit as a fiddle and ready for any task that may contribute most to the war effort.

Mrs. Ehrman feels that the best way to do this is by adhering to a strict beauty program and suggests a plan for periodic shampoos, scalp treatments, manicures, facials, and permanents, all of which are available to the Avalon Salon under the critical eye and skilled hand of the best beauticians.

The Avalon is decorated attractively and modernly; is comfortable and conducive to relaxation and a period of rest.

Mrs. Ehrman is planning a specialized service for war workers which will include suggestions for a safe and sane coiffure as well as special skin care, both of which are of noted importance to those women employed in factories.

"It is not necessary," Mrs. Ehrman states, "to forego either femininity or high fashion for defense." A consultation with one of the experienced cosmotologists at the Avalon will prove this contention, she says.

Following her avid interest in the problem of defense, Mrs. Ehrman is devoting three hours each day to "machine shop" classes so that she will be prepared to work efficiently as a machinist if women are conscripted for factory work.

For this reason Mrs. Ehrman explains that, if at any time, appointments can not be made to the complete satisfaction of the customer, that, understanding the present set-up, the patron will not criticize Avalon service.

The shop opens at 9:30 a. m. and will continue taking evening appointments during the holiday season for the convenience of those who are unable to get in during the day. After Jan. 1, the new hours will be from 10 a. m. until 7 p. m., with later work done only by appointment.

The same careful consultation and beauty service will prevail as in the past, however, and customers will still have the benefit of every new idea or device as it evolves in the baeuty world.

The Avalon will continue, too, to specialize in the proper styling and the correct permanent waving of grey hair so that it may be saved from drab lifelessness or restored to shining silver.

All work is popularly priced so that quality workmanship and individualized beauty service need not overtax the strictest beauty budget.

The entire staff of the Avalon Beauty Salon extends to customers hearty greetings for a Merry American Christmas and best wishes for beauty in the New Year.

A corner of the Avalon Beauty Salon, 73½ North Main street, is shown in the accompanying photo with Mrs. Mildred Ehrman, proprietor, and Claire Taflinger about to begin work on a customer whose grey hair will receive their special attention.

NEW GROUP OF RECORDINGS NOW AVAILABLE

Eugene Smart Music Store Receiving Center For Discarded Discs.

Dealers are having extreme difficulty in obtaining phonograph records, according to Eugene Smart of the Smart Music Studios, 5 Park avenue west, and his record and piano shop, 6 South Main street.

Smart was able, fortunately, to obtain new records in the Cleveland market this week which will keep his stock at its usual peak.

We must, however, turn in old records in order to obtain new ones, Smart explains. "There is no shortage of the new discs but there is a shortage of shellac and other materials required in record manufacture. Consequently the government is calling in all old material which can be salvaged for use in producing new discs."

Various government agencies recognize the need of a steady distribution of the new discs, Smart says, both to the civilian population and to the armed forces as a means of promoting a high morale.

Music lovers can directly aid in the war effort by contributing old phonograph records. Smart will buy all types and makes of old records except the thick Edison types. Owners may turn in their contributions at the record-piano department or telephone the store and they will be called for at the home.

While you're at Smart's, you may choose a record from the new collection purchased in Cleveland this week. Also, a group of new albums make a "different" Christmas gift.

Low Temperatures Increase Need for Furnace Check Ups

With the two Boston holocausts, the Pittsburgh and the Lakewood fires burned so recently into our minds, we become so fire conscious as never before.

Had you considered the fire hazard that may easily exist in your own home?

With days of near zero weather upon us when furnaces so often become overheated, it behooves us to put forth every effort to check carefully the safety of our own heating plants.

Furnaces can be defective in so many ways that are not apparent that causual inspection is rarely a guarantee as to the condition of a home heating plant.

Now, however, you can attack the problem in a scientific manner.

A remarkable recent chemical development, available free to all homes in Mansfield, has made an exact science of testing furnaces. The name of the process is Fume-Chek and it is available exclusively through the Allen Knapp Heating company, 130 North Walnut street.

Mr. Knapp will Fume-Chek your furnace without charge or obligation. Just phone 4406-6 and arrangements will be made. After you have Fume-Cheked, you will know whether there is danger, not only of fire, but from carbon-monoxide poisoning or excessive use of fuel.

And during this check-up the service of your heating plant need not be disconnected even temporarily.

You are NOT required to write a letter to receive an award.

The awards are decided on the selections above. We would really appreciate it, though, if you would write a note saying what you DO NOT LIKE and . . . also . . . WHY YOU LIKED some of the good ads.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with the awards . . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our merchants.

Your criticisms and suggestions will be given to the merchants to help them to improve their advertisements BUT the merchants will NOT be given the names of those who write the letters. This is so you may say just what you really think without embarrassment.

COTTAGE GARDEN CLUB INSTALLS OFFICERS

Mrs. S. A. Richardson Will Head Group for 1943; Christmas Party, Installation Held Friday at Women's Club.

NEW OFFICERS for the coming year were installed yesterday evening at the meeting of the Cottage Garden club, when it held its Christmas party at the Women's Club in charge of Mrs. S. D. Hoover, and her associates.

A three-course dinner was served at one long table, attractively centered with evergreens and Christmas ornaments, and red, white and blue candles. The place cards were Christmas greeting cards with an exchange of recipes and flower seeds.

After dinner, Mrs. C. F. Sheriff, retiring president, turned the meeting over to Mrs. S. A. Richardson, the new president, who took charge of the business meeting. The club decided to suspend meeting during January and February for the duration of the war. Mrs. Richardson named her committees for the coming year, and installed the other new officers.

Officers who were installed were Mrs. Richardson, president; Mrs. D. G. Roth, vice president; Mrs. D. W. Dickerson, secretary; Mrs. E. C. Frampton, treasurer; Mrs. A. C. Tuttle, Mrs. George Fort and Mrs. W. H. Goodenough, board of gardeners.

The program, which was in charge of Mrs. S. A. Wentz, Mrs. H. G. Miller and Mrs. J. H. Petree, consisted of Christmas carols by the group, accompanied by Miss Florence Gernhardt at the piano and a reading given by Mrs. Sheriff, who gave the drama "Family Portrait" a religious play by Lenora Coffee and William Cowen.

Simmons. Mrs. H. Baer, retiring president, was presented a gift from the members. Hostesses were Mrs. Harold Doolittle, Mrs. Laura Myers, Mrs. George Garrison and Mrs. Lyle Smith. The next meeting will be Jan. 14 at the parish house.

'Broadcast' Given For Nomad Club

The program for the Christmas meeting of the Nomad club at the home of Mrs. E. R. Hartman, Marion avenue, on Wednesday was a mock broadcast from Station XMXAS. Mrs. Harry Cave served as the announcer and introduced the program participants. Mrs. Marie Porterfield played Christmas numbers as piano selections. "The Dust of the Road," by Kenneth Sawyer Goodman, was read by Mrs. Henry B. Sanford.

Mrs. Estes Thompson gave the reading, "How Come Christmas" by Roark Bradford. Mrs. Hartman's home was attractively decorated in keeping with the holiday theme of the meeting. On Jan. 6, there will be a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Robert B. Black.

SECOND DISTRICT.

The Second district of the First Lutheran church had a covered-dish dinner and Christmas party with an exchange of gifts Wednesday noon at the church. Thirty-five members attended the Christmas program which was given by A. Shaniberger, Mrs. W. C. Harris, Mrs. Phifer and Mrs. Wade

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Rev. Elder Speaks At Brinkerhoff

The guest speaker for the Brinkerhoff P. T. A. meeting Thursday evening was Rev. Carl Elder, a returned missionary from Thailand, who spoke on his experiences while interned there.

Gifts were presented to the patrol boys and the resigning custodian, Mr. Cole, from the association. All the grades had charge of the room decorations which included a large beautifully lighted Christmas tree.

Arrangements were made by Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Ogden, Mr. and Mrs. George Oliphant and Mrs. Carl Russell. Mrs. D. C. Cole will be the program chairman for Jan. 21 meeting.

Circle Program Has Yule Theme

Circle Three of the First Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. J. D. Phillips, Mulberry street, Thursday with 15 members and one guest, Mrs. Phillips' daughter-in-law, in attendance. Mrs. Leo Hartman was associate hostess. A Christmas story was read by Mrs. Weldon Close for the devotions. Mrs. Fred Frizell, president, conducted the short business session.

For the program, Mrs. Hartman read a story entitled, "When the Christmas Bells Rang." Members exchanged gifts. Refreshments were served buffet style from a table decorated with a holiday arrangement consisting of a floral centerpiece and red tapers. Tea was poured by Mrs. Frizzell. The place for the Jan. 21 meeting will be announced.

LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

Last night's meeting of the library committee of the Women of the Moose was held at the home of Mrs. Letitia Prosser, West Dickson avenue, with Mrs. Eunice Crawford and Mrs. Esther Edgerton as associate hostesses. The business session was conducted by the chairman, Mrs. Esther Wiparina. A white elephant sale was held. Mrs. Crawford led the story hour, after which lunch was served at a long table decorated with Christmas appointments. Places at the table were marked by the names on the exchange gifts.

Party Given for Miss Van Derau

Another in the series of parties and showers honoring Miss Winifred Van Derau, bride-elect of Gordon Ensminger, was given by Mrs. Harry V. Henness and daughter, Mrs. Rosalee McMullen, at their home, 142 Stewart avenue, Thursday evening.

The honoree was presented with a shower of miscellaneous gifts. Miss Van Derau also was winner of the high score prize in bridge. Another award went to Mrs. William Mosey. The hostesses presented the bride with a gift of furniture. Christmas decorations were carried out in the home.

PAL CLUB MEETS.

The Pal club met at the home of Mrs. Glenn Heldenbrand, 116 Dawson avenue last evening. Bingo was played and prizes won by Mrs. Harriett Kocheiser and Mrs. Virginia Gerhart. Luncheon was served at one long table, with Christmas decorations, by candle light. Mrs. Richard Armstrong, Lexington, will entertain at the Jan. 12 meeting.

D. A. R. Meeting At Eagles Hall

Past Councillors of the Daughters of America met in the Eagles hall yesterday afternoon for their Christmas dinner. Presiding officer was Miss Ida Hunter.

At this time plans were made for a meeting to be held here Jan. 9 for the Past Councillors all over the district. This meeting will be held at the Eagles hall.

Cards were played and the 6:00 dinner was in charge of Mrs. Sarah Case, Mrs. Hezel Stickler, Mrs. Fanny Nail, Mrs. Martha Reichert, and Mrs. Clara Hicks. The tables were set in a "V" shape and decorations were in keeping with the Christmas season.

The next regular meeting in charge of Mrs. R. B. Kime and her committee will be at the hall, Jan. 22.

L'Etude Club Sets New Time

Decision was made by L'Etude club members at their meeting Thursday evening to hold all meetings at 7:30 p. m. for the duration of the war. Mrs. Melvin Welty read a poem entitled, "Vagabond's House," by Don Blanding. The life of the poet was the study topic.

Prizes in contests were won by Mrs. T. E. Cuddy, jr., and Mrs. John Grohol. Christmas gifts were exchanged. Lunch was served at a long table decorated with lighted candles. Mrs. Welty will have the next meeting at her home, 187 Rowland avenue, on Jan. 14.

AT STOUGH HOME

Bide-A-Wee club members met at the home of Mrs. Carl Stough, Grant street, for an all-day session on Wednesday. Chicken dinner was served at noon. Gifts were exchanged and the afternoon was spent socially. Mrs. Ersie Shriver will entertain at her home, 92 Marion avenue, on Dec. 30.

CARR KINDERGARTEN GIVES PLAY FRIDAY

Parents Guests When Youngsters Present Original Christmas Program; Decorations and Invitations Made By Children.

AN ORIGINAL PLAY was dramatized by 18 children of the Carr Kindergarten Friday morning when the school held its Christmas party. The program was opened with a speech of welcome by Patty Mabee. Mary Lou Barnett was mistress of ceremonies.

Characters in the play were the following: Tin Soldiers, Ricky Uhl, leader; Drummer, John Gettles; Trumpeter, Bill Casey; Gunners, Hughie Maxwell, Bradley Vinson and John Rist; Mama Dolls, Mary Lou Barnett, Patty Mabee, Virginia Parr and Muriel Slattery; Queen of Hearts, Carol Brinkman; King of Hearts, Larry Brinkman; Dancing Doll, Mary Lou Wissinger; Children Visiting Toyland, Kitty Bergstrom and Julia Lentz; Christmas Fairy, Mary Elizabeth Glessner.

Musical scores were "Toyland," "The Drummer," and "Playmate." "Jingle Bells" was played by the toy band. Special dance numbers were presented by Mona Lou Wissinger, as the Dancing Doll, and Carol and Larry Brinkman, King and Queen of Hearts, who gave a minuet. The farewell remarks were given by John Kettles.

Decorations for the school and invitations to the guests were made by the children. At the close of the play each youngster presented a picture of the Kindergarten group to his or her parents. A visit from Santa Claus and a gift exchange brought the program to a close.

DINA CASHMAN + + +

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER IV

"Back in the hills, yes; it's a friend's place. He's in the east It's nearly up to the Skyline boulevard. It was a farmhouse and barns when he took it; he's not done much to it. But now that the place has a mistress," Andrew said, his face glowing with anticipation, "we're going to do great things, build a terrace and have a grill—so that we can have our friends there."

"It sounds lovely," Dina commented, anxious only to keep the conversation flowing smoothly and avoid pitfalls.

"It's pretty rough now, especially for anyone like Aline," he explained apologetically. "She's always had a maid, you know. I get breakfasts," went on Andrew, "and carry her tray, and we picnic. We've only been home four days, but we'll get it all licked into shape pretty soon."

"You two are having much too nice a time," Aline said suddenly behind them and leaned over Andrew's shoulder to kiss the top of his head and lay her cheek against his temple for a second. "I had to come up here and ask you if you still loved me!"

"Aline, for heaven's sake, cut all this bridal-suite stuff!" a woman said.

"You're a complete idiot," Andrew said. He got up to escort her back to her place, and she looked about the company with her eloquent dove-blue eyes and said defiantly, "I don't care; he's the nicest person alive!"

When he came back to his seat Dina was talking with, or rather listening to, the agreeable and courteous Reggie

"There's one thing about my wife," Andrew Havens told Dina, "she's completely unpredictable. She says herself she's like a little girl who's discovered happiness for the first time in her life. She hates to hurt anyone and she hates anyone to be cross at her."

He reflected upon this with a half-smile and in obvious satisfaction while a salad was passed and presently said in a confidential undertone:

"When we met each other" he continued as Dina listened, absorbed. "I'd just arrived here in California; I didn't know any of these people, and I didn't know that Aline was engaged to Rogers. She didn't tell me! D'you see the consideration there, Miss Cashman? She didn't want to hurt Rogers Holland, humiliate him. It wasn't until after we were married that she told me that she had had to break it off with him, and then—"

"Then she said," he resumed, "that the very first dinner engagement we made must be here; she wanted Mr. Holland to know me and me to know him; there mustn't be any hurt feelings or silences or anything unexplained! That, I think," Andrew finished with satisfaction, "gives you a pretty good idea of what she's really like. It's"—he spoke reverently—"it's angelic!" he said.

Dina drank nothing. She had been feeling physically upset all day and dared risk only a little chicken and some salad accompanied by the dry, crisp crackers and toasted breads which all these eating and drinking folk seemed to feel were helpful to reducing. It was therefore in a state of chill and weakness favorable for the wildest apprehension that she found herself accompanying the other women upstairs after the meal.

The enormous bedroom filled with comfortable chairs brightened by a wild fire had been placed at their disposal.

Dina sat in a big chair, shrinking back into the protection of its depths, watching the other women, listening to them, managing never quite to catch anyone's eye. But Aline, powdering her nose, touching the shining, flawless helmet of her black hair with a ringed hand, had no notion of letting her escape.

"How long have you known Rogers, Miss Cashman?"

"Not—very long," Dina answered hesitantly.

"Your people's friend?"

She smiled demurely

"I hope so."

Aline rose, strolled across the room, stood at the hearth looking down at Dina.

"Tell me something about yourself," she said winningly. "You see, I happen to know Rogers Holland extremely well. In fact, I was engaged to him."

"He told me," Dina said.

"So it seemed odd to me to find you here tonight—his ward, he said, didn't he?—when he never mentioned you to me."

"Well, Aline," said a stout, handsome young woman who had been complaining bitterly of her slippers and now had them off and was studying one attentively, "I can imagine myself being engaged to a man, and even breaking the engagement, without expecting to know absolutely everyone he knew!"

"Certainly," Aline agreed sharply, resenting the reflection upon her common sense; "but I'm surprised, that's all. What did he tell you about me?" she demanded with an amused glance about the circle.

"That you were engaged and that you married someone else," Dina answered simply.

"I think you have the rottenest manners, Aline, I've ever seen in my entire life," the stout woman said dreamily, trying on a slipper and wincing.

"Rogers told me you asked him to give this party," another woman said reproachfully. "I think it was wonderful of Rogers to do it after the way you treated him."

"How did I treat him, Lucy?" Aline asked, not opening her eyes.

"Well," began Lucy uncertainly. Dina could tell from her tone that she was a good-natured soul who disliked fomenting trouble. "I mean, you did throw him down pretty hard," she said; "the wedding date all set and everything. And we all know, no matter who you happen to be married to, that Rogers just blindly adores you."

"Can't help that." Aline opened her eyes, looked into space with the hint of a self-conscious smile on her lips "I met Andy," she said eloquently.

"I met Andy!" Dina heard old Mrs. Prince mutter under her breath.

"D'you like him?" Aline was now demanding "Now, tell me, everybody, don't you think he's really—no but I mean, isn't he really divine?"

"Magnificent," someone said jokingly.

* * *

Dina was for the moment forgotten, and she was presently glad to drift downstairs with the other women and find Mrs. Buckley about to come up again in search of her.

"Hal's in here with the car who'll get you ready," said Mrs. Buckley.

"Oh, but I thought he said half-past ten," Dina exclaimed her heart rising on a wave of relief.

"It's nearly eleven," Mrs. Buckley told her smiling. "You can say good night to Mr. Holland now if you like," she suggested Dina, who had been all ready for departure, was reminded of her manners and went at once into the big drawing room, where several card games were already in progress. Rogers was playing; he glanced up as she came near him and stood for a moment looking over his shoulder.

"Doubled and vulnerable—eight hundred. That'll learn 'em, Lucy! Nice bidding. And are you going, my dear?" he added, rising to face Dina.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

There was something in Philip Veritzen's voice which made me think it was not the first time he had put that question, and this was confirmed by Olga's almost passionate disclaimer.

"You know that is not true, Philip," she flashed. "I do not like you to say it, for there must be a thought behind your words. You never speak idly. How often must I tell you that I would not go back to those old days for anything in the world? Why won't you believe that I am content and gloriously happy where I am?"

"I do believe it, dearest," he said, as I edged toward the door, wishing that I could don an invisible cloak and slip away. "But you know that cursed inheritance of mine," he went on. "It seizes me like a clutching hand sometimes, and makes me say things to you which ordinarily I would cut out my tongue before I would utter."

Tragic Love Story.

I felt an impelling hand under my elbow and knew Olina also desired to slip out before her engrossed parents should be chagrined on realizing that they had been overheard.

We managed to get through the door unnoticed and Olina drew a long, relieved breath.

"Oh, I'm so glad we got out before they realized we were there," she said. "They'll know later we must have heard them, and they'll be deeply chagrined, but at least they'll have time to pull themselves together before they see us again, and able to save face."

"You are no more relieved than I, Olina," I said, but she went on as if she had not heard me.

"Do you know, I feel sometimes that I don't know my own mother any more? All my life she has been so poised, so regal, so self-confident repressing any emotion, and still is that way most of the time But occasionally like today, she acts like a romantic school girl, and Papa Veritzen, who is such a debonair man o' the world isn't a bit better."

"Worse, I think," I said.

"How they must have loved each other, those two in the days when they were young!" Olina said. "I am so glad they found each other again, for they are ideally happy except when Papa Veritzen gets to thinking about those old days, and imagining that Mama regrets the loss of her throne. If he only could know what a burden it was to her!

Olga's First Marriage.

"I suppose I ought not to tell you this," she went on, "but Mama's marriage to my father was not a happy one. We children always knew it without being told, and we were always partisans of our mother. Oh, we loved our father, of course, but not the way we did Mama, and we strongly resented his treatment of her.

"Now, I am most happy in her happiness—except—I've heard of people getting obsessions about things. Do you suppose Papa Veritzen—"

"You'd better stop right there, Olina," I told her lightly, "or you'll be imagining all sorts of horrors. And I don't think you need to worry about your mother. From what I've observed of her, she's perfectly capable of reducing your stepfather to reason at any moment she chooses. I quote 'She has the situation well in hand'."

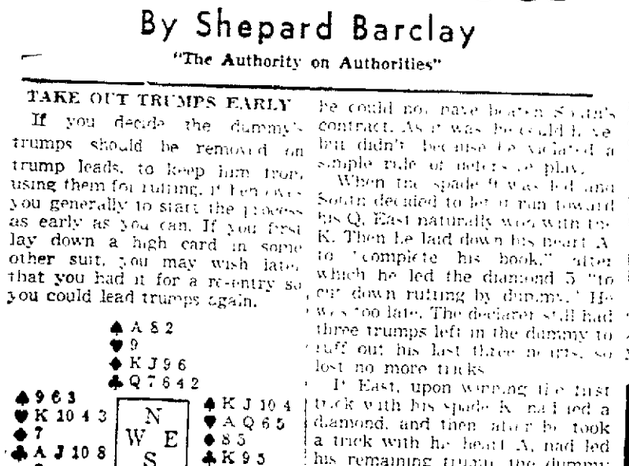
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

TAKE OUT TRUMPS EARLY

If you decide the dummy's trumps should be removed on trump leads, to keep him from using them for ruffing, it helps if you generally to start the process as early as you can. If you first lay down a high card in some other suit, you may wish later that you had it for a re-entry so you could lead trumps again.



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♦
3 ♣	Dbl	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♥	5 ♦	Dbl

Those two little diamonds in East's hand do not look very important. But, if he had held only one of them and his partner two, he could not make both South's contract. As it was he could have but didn't because he violated a simple rule of modern play.

When the spade 9 was led and South decided to let it run toward his Q, East naturally won with the K. Then he laid down his heart A to "complete his book," after which he led the diamond 5 "to cut down ruffing by dummy." He was too late. The declarer still had three trumps left in the dummy to ruff out his last three hearts, so lost no more tricks.

If East, upon winning the first trick with his spade K, had led a diamond, and then after he took a trick with his heart A, had led his remaining trump the dummy would have retained only two trumps to be used in an effort to ruff out three hearts from the South hand. Nobody has yet successfully ruffed three etricks with two trumps, so the contract would have been set by that defense.

What is the greatest advantage of letting everybody know you never bid a No Trump originally except when you have an evenly balanced 4-3-3-3 distribution? What is the greatest disadvantage of it?

in the Temple of Democracy

The sweet hush of peace fills the air—to be broken only by the warm, chattery greetings of neighbors meeting on their way to Church . . . and by the children's laughter as they make merry in the snow. All the ground is mantled with the snow's whiteness, and again-as-white is the little house of worship illumined by the early morning sun. It is Christmas in America. Christmas, 1942. And from the rock-ribbed New England coast to the coast 3,000 miles away, many millions of the people will be observing the holiday, each in his own fashion. For from each native land, and from each denomination's tenets, have come down varying customs in raiment, in food, in the exchange of gifts—and in the very spiritual observance itself. Yet such is the heart and spirit of America—that the gracious sharing of good things at Christmas time has been adopted as a custom too, even by those whose forbears' origin and faith did not call for Christmas observance. And such is the soul and zeal of Americans that in every heart this Christmas will rise the common prayer of—"Peace on Earth: Good Will toward Men." For this is the Temple of Democracy, where all men, all women, and all children are meant to live in love and tolerance for each other's habits, traditions . . . and failings. This is where the arms of friendship open wide—to sustain the weak as they embrace the strong, whatever a man's race, religion or creed; so long as he too is true to the meaning of Democracy. For He whose blessed birth is so joyously remembered at this time was verily the most ardent teacher of democracy the world has ever known. And as we re-read the story of His life and re-hear the words He spoke, there will only be reaffirmed the fact that these are the teachings which must be again carried around the world—and this is the land that now has the very sacred obligation of bringing about the vigorous and everlasting re-birth of democracy —Bury deep under their own iniquities those who, with the insidious means of fascism, would make the world again pagan—bereft of the holiness and beauty of brotherly love! Let the churches and homes of the nation be filled with prayer and song in praise of Him! And let us do more: let each one of us go forth from this day on, and in His name become an unflagging crusader for the regeneration of the brotherhood of man, as He taught it, and still lives to teach it in the hearts of those who understand that Love and Democracy are one! And next Christmas may the hands and hearts of all God's children be joined in peace.

Tygers Score First Cage Victory, Defeating Willard

Sport Podge by REX HESS

It may be jingle bells instead of school bells for most of Mansfield's kids, but the Christmas vacation is slightly postponed for the bucket tossing Tygers of Mansfield high school.

The Tygers return to school Monday afternoon for their usual cage drill, and they'll go back to school Tuesday night for their final game before the holidays, meeting Cleveland Collinwood.

And Collinwood, defeated by last year's terrific Tygers, will be out for revenge from this year's Mansfield quintet. Collinwood opened its season with a victory last week, and may have the stuff to gain that revenge.

"This is just like it was at Mt. Vernon," soliloquized Paul Snyder, Tyger grid coach, as he watched his Mansfield sophomore cagers defeat Madison's reserves Thursday night.

"I'm still thinking football while coaching basketball, and when spring football practice starts, I'll still be thinking basketball," said Snyder who was forced back into the cage coaching ranks this winter.

"My production is always being held up by a change-over in the assembly line," explained the war effort conscious Snyder.

* * *

Portsmouth is all set for a short mileage football schedule next fall with the organization of the Big Seven tristate league of Ohio valley schools in Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

But Portsmouth still wants Mansfield and Springfield on the 1943 slate, since both schools owe the Trojans a game at Portsmouth on home and home agreements.

And Mansfield is still willing to go through with the contract if the government and transportation conditions permit.

Peg tagged a six-day suspension on Captain Tom Williams for misconduct following a game with Columbus South.

And the next day only one member of the first string squad of seven players was present for practice. He also is the only member of the 7-man squad who wasn't a football player.

At last reports, Peg wasn't sure what he'd do about it. But there was no report that the grid-cage union was picketing the joint.

* * *

Mansfield high school's athletic heroes of last year are beginning to come home for the holidays.

Bob Winbigler and Paul Dietzel got in yesterday afternoon from Duke university and were happy spectators as the Tygers defeated Willard last night.

Ed Arlin was due home from Georgia university last night or this morning. Both Arlin and Winbigler are now tiping the beams at 210 pounds. Too bad they were so bright. Both are still young enough to be playing high school football.

Beau Jack Has Claim To Title

Stops Tippy Larkin With Wild Uppercut.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Beau Jack, a primitive, brown-skinned basher from Georgia, smashed Tippy Larkin on the chin with a wild right uppercut last night at Madison Square Garden to win a knockout victory in the third round and partial recognition as lightweight champion of the world.

This brown-lightning blow that dish-ragged Larkin to the canvas before 18,817 fans made the ex-bootblack of Augusta, Ga., king of the 135-pounders in the eyes of the New York and New Jersey boxing commissions, giving him the title vacated recently by Sammy Angott of Washington, Pa., who retired because of bad hands.

This bout, which was scheduled for 15 rounds and which attracted a respectable gate of $58,468, ended more quickly than was expected, although the ultimate outcome was in little doubt after Beau Jack floored Larkin for a one-count in the first minute of the first round.

Beau Jack, who was born Sidney Walker 22 years ago, upheld the confidence of the syndicate of sportsmen who had brought him from the Bobby Jones golf course of Augusta to New York. He upheld the discernment of these sportsmen who lifted him from deep-south battle royals to a royal battle that made him the third Negro to wear the lightweight crown — the bonnet that once adorned the great Joe Gans and Henry Armstrong.

The Georgia Negro, who had gone into the ring favored at 11-5, licked an excellent lightweight last night. Larkin, the sharp-shooting "gunner" of Garfield, N. J., was sharp as a razor and using every tactic that seven years of professional battling had taught him.

Moreover, Larkin—entirely unimpressed by Beau Jack's reputation—blazed away, again and again, with his own explosive right hand, trying to knock Beau Jack into never-never-land.

Despite the hurricane of blows that swirled about him, tall, brown-haired Larkin smashed Beau Jack in the face 50 or 60 times with punches that had knocked out 41 of Tippy's previous 94 opponents. But nothing happened. Beau Jack—like a berserk Henry Armstrong—marched forward in brown windmill fashion. Larkin's hardest blows bounced off him like rain drops in this brief but electrifying battle.

Beau Jack, who received about $15,000 for his efforts, said in the dressing room, "I'll be a fighting champion, because I love to fight, and don't know anything else." He will take on over-the-weight matches until the New York state tournament provides a challenger. The National Boxing association is running its own lightweight tournament and refuses to recognize Beau Jack. But everyone on 49th street is convinced that N. B. A. recognition will come shortly, without Jack evoking it with his fists.

Beau Jack scaled 132¾ against Larkin's 134¼.

Armstrong Voted No. 1 Comeback

NEW YORK —(AP)— The year's outstanding comeback in sports, in the opinion of writers throughout the country, was engineered by Henry Armstrong, one-time triple champion of the ring who has won 13 fights since he came out of retirement early in the summer.

* * *

Hammering Hank's feat rated far ahead of all other comebacks by teams or individuals in the annual Associated Press poll of 86 sports editors. Fifty of the voters awarded the Californian one of the three places on their ballots. Armstrong collected 111 points, 45 more than his closest rival.

The second best comeback was that of the St. Louis Cardinals, who nosed out the Brooklyn Dodgers for the National league pennant and walloped the New York Yankees in the World Series.

Baseball also figured in the next three places in the tabulation. Larry French, the Brooklyn Dodger pitcher who won ten games before losing one, was ranked third with 40 points. Fourth and 33 points went to Ernie Lombardi of the Boston Braves for returning to the National league batting championship. The St. Louis Browns were fifth with 29 points.

Ashland Rolls Over Whippets

Ashland high school opened its drive for the North Central Ohio league cage title by defeating the Shelby Whippets, 52 to 35, Friday night.

Led by Ted Jacobs who scored 12 field goals and one free throw for a total of 25 points, the Ashlanders led throughout the game with the exception of the first few minutes.

The score stood 11 to 5 at the end of the first period, 23 to 14 at the half and 41 to 24 going into the final quarter.

Akron Frosh Wins for Zips

Change Freshman Rule In Time For Victory.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Akron university's decision to use freshmen in varsity athletics paid an early dividend.

One day after the faculty council adopted the rule, yearling Frank "Whitey" Wahl sank a follow-up shot in the last 12 seconds to give his teammates a 36-34 basketball victory over Muskingum college last night.

* * *

It was the first loss of the year for the Muskies and the third win against two losses for the Zippers.

Ohio Wesleyan came from behind in another game to whip John Carroll university in Cleveland, 52-46. Freshman Jack Gallagher of John Carroll was high scorer with 15 points.

Freshman Joe Kostorhysz, with 22 points, paced the Baldwin-Wallace Yellow Jackets to a 56-34 win over Kent State in an Ohio conference game at Berea. It was the fifth straight loss for Kent.

Today's games: Muskingum at Duquesne, Heidelberg at Fenn, Cincinnati at Ohio university, Ohio Wesleyan at Western Reserve, Xavier at Wabash, Youngstown at Toledo.

It was Ashland's third consecutive win this season and the first loss out of two games for the Whippets.

In other North Central Ohio league tilts, Marion romped over Bucyrus 53-34, and Mt. Vernon defeated Galion 32-24 as the opening night of loop competition saw all three favorites on the right side of the ledger.

ATHLETE KILLED

NEWTON, Mass.—(INS)—First Lieutenant George E. Duane, 23, former Harvard university hockey and football star, was killed in action in the North African invasion, his mother, Mrs. Ella M. Duane had been notified today by the war department.

Baker and Lameraux Pace Mansfield Quint

Late Rally Saves Game After Hoffman Hoopsters Get Early Lead

LITTLE BOBBY BAKER and tall Andy Lameraux paced Mansfield high Tygers to their first cage victory of the season last night at Senior high gym, a 33-24 decision over an occasionally threatening Willard club.

Baker with 13 points and Lameraux with 12 accounted for 25 of the Mansfield markers, just enough to win by one point, and leaving few for the rest of the Tygers in that 33 total.

Rettig, big Willard center, also was having a hot night, and as long as he was hitting the hoop, Willard was in the ball game. But he cooled off in the second half.

* * *

Tygers had their eye on the bucket last night, particularly from the free line when they made five of their first seven shots while Willard was missing its first five free tosses, making only one out of the first nine.

The two teams battled along point for point until late in the first quarter when Mansfield broke an 8-8 deadlock and forged ahead 12-8 at the end of the period. The game was practically in the bag at the end of the half with the Tygers leading 21-15, but the third quarter found the lid on both hoops as Mansfield outscored Willard only 3 to 2.

Willard refused to give up, and brought the score to 23-26 with little less than four minutes to play, but the Tygers had a late rally in reserve, and soon ran out the string, giving nearly the entire squad of substitutes a chance to play in the last two minutes.

First shot taken in the game found the hoop as Lameraux sank a one-hander from the side. Rettig got a long shot. Les Myers tallied on a shot from the side. Rettig hooped a one-hander from the side. Doug Myers missed a free shot. Hahn caged a one-hander from the side. Goodsite sank a long shot from the side and Rettig a one-hander from the side. Baker tied it up at 8-8 with a shot from the circle. Goodsite missed a free shot. Baker and Lameraux each scored on fast break plays under the hoop to make it 12-8 at the quarter.

Baker got a free point on a technical foul. Jackson missed a free shot. Black scored on a short shot from the side. Les Myers got a free point. Black missed a pair of free shots. Rettig sank a long shot from the side. Lameraux tallied on a pivot. Costein got

THEATERS

Aerial Drama.

"Flying Fortresses," a Warner Brothers' thriller made in England, opens Saturday at the Ohio. Produced in cooperation with the Royal Air Force and the Atlantic Ferry Command the picture gives movie audiences their first chance to see American Flying Fortresses in action. Richard Greene heads the English cast as an American playboy who shows his colors in the R. A. F. when given a target in Berlin. The bombing furnishes a thrilling spectacle and there are other exciting sequences. Carla Lehman is the leading lady.

Chiller-Diller.

Two Hollywood horror dramas top the bill at the Madison beginning today. Lon Chaney, jr., carries the leading part in "Mummy's Tomb," the story of vengeance wrecked upon an archaeologist by an Egyptian mummy that has been kept alive 1,000 years by a magic chemical brew. Dick Foran has the role of the archaeologist, Chaney portrays the mummy and the supporting cast includes Elyse Knox, Virginia Brissac and Mary Gordon. "Night Monster," the other attraction features Bela Lugosi and Lionel Atwill in an eerie thriller concerning a series of murders on a country estate.

Dramatic Story.

"Gallant Lady," screen adaptation of an Octavus Roy Cohen story, opening Sunday at the Ritz, presents Rose Hobart in the role of a woman doctor who finds herself forced to flee with a gangster just about the time she is ready to be paroled from a prison farm. Sidney Blackmer plays the second doctor in the picture, a country physician who befriended the girl. Claire Rochelle and Jane Novak are in the cast. Mary Ainslee in "Mad Youth," with Betty Compson is the second attraction.

Air Drama.

The story of a forgotten man of the air is told in "Flight Lieutenant," the Park attraction opening Sunday. Co-starring Pat O'Brien and Glenn Ford the picture tells the story of a commercial pilot who becomes an outcast after being blamed for an air accident and of his son who sets out to restore his father's honor through his own record. Evelyn Keyes is in the cast. The Bumsteads, Dagwood and Blondie, do their bit towards winning the war in "Blondie For Victory," the second attraction with Arthur Lake and Penny Singleton.

HOROSCOPE

FOR SUNDAY, DECEMBER 20

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a very perplexing and difficult one, and it may be best to adhere to the mystical and cultural pursuits and avocations of the day. There may be hazard from many directions, accidents, quarrels and pernicious situations regarding both public and private affiliations. The latter are particularly menaced, therefore use exceptional prudence, restraint and vigilance.

Those whose birthday it is may not be surprised to find a year of difficulties and peculiar or strange conditions, which may only be managed by self-restraints, vigilance and most circumspect conduct, this in business as well as private relations. The treacheries may occur in intimate relations.

For Monday, December 21.

MONDAY'S astrologcal forecast is for a peculiar state of affairs, with omens of danger, loss and accident of many types of risk and defeat. Physical dangers may be imminent, although the emotional or intimate affiliations are also subject to peril, with loss, estrangement or other sinister complication. Guard against these by temperance, prudence and moderation and assistance may be forthcoming from a phychic premonition or intuition.

Those whose birthday it is may have to prepare for a year of defeats, adverse and curious situations, which may endanger the physical well-being as well as the emotional or sentimental associations. Duplicity and under-cover attack may menace although heeding the intuition and conscience may avert serious calamity.

PAM— In the Dead of Night. By A. W. Brewerton

IT'S TWO-THIRTY AND STILL THE FLASHES CONTINUE!
OH, I HOPE DAVID SEES IT!
BILL, YOU STAY HERE. I'M GOING BACK AND JOIN THE BOYS IN THE CAR -- THOSE BIRDS MAY COME RUSHING OUT ANY MINUTE NOW!
OKAY, DAVE!
IT'S STOPPED NOW! WONDER IF SHE'S THROUGH FOR TONIGHT
YES, SHE'S CLOSING HER WINDOW!
MINUTES LATER, TWO CARS ARE SPEEDING OUT A ROAD LEADING FROM THE CITY, THE REAR CAR RUNNING WITHOUT LIGHTS
DON'T GET TOO CLOSE, HARRY!

BRINGING UP FATHER— By George McManus

MY HUSBAND TELLS ME YOUR HUSBAND IS QUITE BUSY IN DEFENSE WORK- ESPECIALLY AT HOME-
NOW-JUST WHAT DID HE MEAN BY SAYING THAT?
MY HUSBAND IS 'SHARING THE RIDE' WITH PEOPLE - HE'S VERY PATRIOTIC' ISN'T THAT YOUR HUSBAND?
JIMMY- STOP AT DINTY'S AND SEE WHO WE KIN TAKE HOME!

THE GUMPS— Tilda Does Her Bit. By Gus Edson

THIS IS THE TOUGHEST ASSIGNMENT I'VE EVER HANDLED-HOLY CATFISH! THERE DOESN'T SEEM TO BE ONE SOLITARY PERSON ON PARADISE BOULEVARD WHO'S BROKE-NOT COUNTING YOU!!!
POOR, KINDHEARTED UNCLE BIM-HE'LL BE TERRIBLY DISAPPOINTED IF HE DOESN'T HAVE AT LEAST ONE NEIGHBOR TO GET OUT OF HOCK BY CHRISTMAS-
WHAT A SHAME- THE DEAR SWEET BOY-
OKAY CREDIT FUR CO ONE FLIGHT UP
WELL, UNCLE BIM- I WON'T LET YOU DOWN!

DICK TRACY— Frame Up. By Chester Gould

I FOLLOWED HIM, MRS TRUEHEART, TO A BLACKSMITH SHOP HE'S HAVING SOME KIND OF A CONTRAPTION MADE WITH WHEELS.
GOOD. STAY RIGHT WITH HIM - AND WHEN YOU COME BACK, ENTER THROUGH THE KITCHEN DON'T LET HIM SEE YOU.
WHAT EVER HIS CONTRAPTION IS - WE'VE GOT TO SEE IT. NOW, LET'S SEE - I WANT SOME HOLLY PAPER AND A BOX
-AND THESE STONES FROM THE ALLEY WE'LL NEED THEM, TOO. YES, SIR, MR. ROOMER, YOU'RE ON THE SPOT

TILLIE THE TOILER

OH, TILLIE, MY FRIEND COMMANDO BILL WANTS TO TALK TO YOU
DOES HE?
TILLIE, CAN YOU GO TO A DANCE AT OTTUMWA?
WHY, BILL, IT'S AGAINST THE RULES TO GO SO FAR - NO!
NO, I CAN'T TAKE AN ARMY CAR FOR A RIDE EITHER - I'M NOT GOING TO DO ANY-THING THAT'S AGAINST THE RULES
MISS JONES, IT'S AGAINST THE RULES TO MONOPOLIZE THIS 'PHONE - THERE ARE OTHERS WHO WANT TO USE IT
MUCH LATER
CQ

RUSS WESTOVER
I'LL BET COOKIE'S UPSET - BILL TALKED ONLY A MINUTE TO HER AND HALF AN HOUR TO ME
COOKIE, I HOPE YOU AREN'T HURT BECAUSE BILL IS TAKING SUCH AN INTEREST IN ME
NO, BILL AND I ARE JUST FRIENDS
OF COURSE HIS MOTHER DID PICK ME OUT FOR BILL TO MARRY, SHE WAS SO TAKEN WITH MY BEAUTY-
12-15
- I WAS SIX AT THE TIME
RUSS WESTOVER
COOKIE, THERE ARE LOTS OF HOMELIER GIRLS THAN YOU - LOOK AT THAT ONE IN THE NEWSPAPER
12-16
TILLIE, YOU'D BETTER LOOK AT THIS PICTURE MORE CLOSELY
"GERTIE THE EDUCATED CHIMPANZEE" - OH, COOKIE, FORGIVE ME
GOSH, MY PICTURE ON THE FRONT PAGE
CLARENCE MACDOUGALL, MANAGER OF THE LOCAL BRANCH STORE OF SIMPKINS AND CO — WON'T TILLIE'S EYES STICK OUT WHEN SHE SEES THIS!
GEE, FROM THE LOOK IN COOKIE'S EYES, SHE MUST HAVE FOUND HER DREAM MAN'S PICTURE IN THAT NEWS-PAPER
LOOK HERE, TILLIE
HEAVENS! IT'S MAC!
12-17
RUSS WESTOVER
TILLIE, I DO THINK MAC'S CUTE - I HOPE YOU AREN'T JEALOUS
OF COURSE NOT, COOKIE, MAC'S JUST AN OLD FRIEND
WELL, NOW I KNOW SHE WON'T MIND IF I PASTE MAC'S PICTURE UP
WRITE NOW TO A BOY IN THE SERVICE
LATER
MERCY! IT'S AGAINST THE RULES TO PASTE UP CLIPPINGS AND IT'S ALMOST TIME FOR INSPECTION
NOW TELL ME YOU'RE NOT JEALOUS
12-18
RUSS WESTOVER
IT'S AGAINST THE RULES TO PASTE UP CLIPPINGS, COOKIE - OH DEAR, IT WON'T COME OFF!
GEE, I FORGOT ABOUT THAT TIME FOR INSPECTION, GIRLS
OKAY
12-19
THERE, I'VE RUINED MAC'S PICTURE BUT I'VE SAVED YOU FROM GETTING A GIG
THANKS, TILLIE
AND I HATE TO ADMIT IT BUT I'M AFRAID SHE'S DONE HER BIT TO MAKE THE WORLD MORE BEAUTIFUL
